FDA recalls battery powered, anti-bark dog collars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration today announced a nationwide recall of about 3,000 battery-powered pet collars that shock dogs with 1,800 volts to keep them from barking.

The FDA said electrical charges from the collars have burned holes in the skin of some dogs and could burn children if they are playing with their pets when the collars are activated.

The "Sound-Off Bark Restrainer and Training Collars" were sold nationwide through pet stores and by mail order, the FDA said.

Each collar is equipped with a rectangular box containing a six-volt battery, two exposed electrodes and a small microphone. The 1,800-volt charge is released when the microphone picks up the sound of the dog barking.

Testing at FDA laboratories at Beltsville, Md., and Winchester, Mass., found that the electrical charge also could be activated by the sound of human voices, an automobile horn or the barking of other dogs nearby.

The FDA said it was alerted to the problem by a consumer who complained that his dog had been burned on the neck while wearing a Sound-Off collar.

The collars were manufactured by Hal O. Knutson of Chatsworth, Calif., the FDA said.

The agency said Knutson, under threat of court action, sent voluntary recall letters to distributors and wholesalers and to about 150 known purchasers of the collars.

Knutson, reached by telephone at his home, refused comment. He referred a reporter to his attorney, but refused to disclose the attorney's name.

The FDA said it based its regulatory action on Section 201 (h) of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act which defines devices under its jurisdiction as "instruments, apparatus and contrivances, including their components, parts and accessories, intended ... to affect the structure of any function of the body of man or other animals."

Barking is a normal function of dogs, the FDA said, and any device intended to alter that function through psychological conditioning is subject to FDA regulation if introduced in interstate commerce.

The federal laboratories said dogs tested with the collars reacted with apprehension and retreat, but their behavior returned to normal when the collars were removed.

Two out of three dogs exhibited burns directly attributable to the collar after wearing it four hours a day for four days, the FDA laboratories said.

They said the third dog exhibited lesions, but they may not have been directly attributable to the collar.

Claremont voters recall school board members

College vote and Sycamore turn tide for victors

and BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writers

Voters in Claremont handed a stunning defeat to the majority of their school board Tuesday, voting to recall three trustees who wanted to close the Sycamore School.

In an election that saw a 54 per cent turnout — believed to be a record here for a special election — the voters removed William Anderson, Beverly Shacklett and Ernest Taylor from the Claremont School board and elected Robert Stafford, Maralyn Tipping and Joseph Hough to their places.

The vote appeared to be a mandate from the majority of the voters to keep the Sycamore School in central Claremont open.

Hough said "I certainly considered my election a mandate to reexamine the decision to close that school." Stafford and Mrs. Tipping also had considered that decision the central issue of their campaigns.

The three new board members, supported by the Claremont Committee for Recall, will be sworn into office at the next meeting of the board next week.

It was a bitterly contested election and the results were not decided until the last votes were counted. When it was over, observers pointed out that an extremely heavy 69 per cent return at the Sycamore School and an equally strongly recall-minded college bloc that turned the tide.

A total of 8,634 voters went to the polls out of a registration of 15,917 persons.

Unofficial returns: To recall Anderson, yes, 4,380, no 3,928 (52.7 per cent); Shacklett, yes, 4,460, no, 3,949 (53 per cent); Taylor, yes, 4,458, no 3,920 (53.2 per cent).

Running for Anderson's seat, Stafford, 4,523.

Running for Shacklett's seat, Mrs. Tipping, 4,460.

Seeking Taylor's seat in the only contest among recall candidates, William Barclay Allen, 1,092; Hough, 3,492.

An anti-recall committee's weekend campaign staved off the recall through most of the counting Tuesday night.

Because of the difficulty in handling 18½ by 20-inch ballots and 894 voters casting their ballots at a single precint — Sycamore — the election board there did not get its ballots to the district center until 3:43 a.m. today.

Up to that point, the recall was failing by between 170 and 250 votes.

Sycamore voters, reinforced by the vote from the retirement community, shifted the election overwhelmingly in favor of the recallers. At Sycamore, voters favored recall of Anderson 801-93, Shacklett 794-88, and Taylor 794-87.

The picture appeared different about 1:10 a.m. when the no vote on recall enjoyed a 900-vote margin.

But college students voting at the Claremont Library cut that lead by nearly 500 votes.

Even before the Sycamore vote came in, Anderson predicted that he would be recalled by 500 votes.

"The major difference in this recall election has been the college student vote," Anderson said. "Those students have no status in this community. They don't have children, and don't pay taxes."

Anderson contended that the recall committee put on a voter registration drive about two weeks before the deadline at the Claremont Colleges.

"It was all legal," he said.

As of 2:17 a.m., Sycamore still had 140 ballots to count.

FEATHER IN HIS CAP

California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. tries to quiet the crowd at his Baltimore headquarters after winning Maryland Democratic presidential primary. Jimmy Carter was a distant second.

Walnut's second fastest growing city in state

Walnut was the second fastest growing city in the state last year, according to estimates released today by the State Department of Finance.

The population figure given for Walnut was 8,625, up 21.91 per cent between Jan. 1, 1975, and Jan. 1, 1976.

The top city in growth was Suisun City, with 3,590 residents, up 28.21 per cent. It is in the San Francisco Bay area.

San Jose was the fastest growing city among California's 10 largest, but the percentage was only 1.58 per cent.

Oceanside led all others of more than 50,000 population. Its residents numbered 59,000, up 8.26 per cent.

Brown rocks Carter; Ford back on track

By DAVE GOLDBERG
Associated Press Writer

President Ford won crucial victories Tuesday in Michigan and Maryland Republican primaries. California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. defeated Democratic frontrunner Jimmy Carter in Maryland's primary "popularity contest," but Carter won a narrow victory in Michigan.

Ford, who still trails Reagan in the over-all delegate count, won a landslide victory in his home state of Michigan and won easily in Maryland after having lost five of the last six primaries to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The President said, "Tonight is one of the nicest nights Betty and I have ever had."

Neither Ford nor Reagan did much campaigning in Maryland.

In the Maryland Democratic primary, Brown did to Carter what Idaho Sen. Frank Church had done a week before in Nebraska: he won his first primary race. But Brown did it by a much bigger margin.

However, Carter got the bulk of the delegates because Brown had filed too late to have a delegate slate in Maryland.

Republicans:

In Michigan, the final returns showed:

Ford 689,176 or 65 per cent
Reagan 364,244 or 34 per cent
Uncommitted 8,471 or 1 per cent

Delegates were apportioned according to the vote, and Ford won 55 and Reagan 29.

In Maryland, final returns showed:

Ford 94,784 or 58 per cent
Reagan 68,916 or 42 per cent

Ford won all 43 delegates based on separate counts in the Congressional districts.

Democrats

In Michigan, final returns showed:

Carter 306,501 or 44 per cent
Udall 304,297 or 43 per cent

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who won in Michigan four years ago, ran a distant third with 7 per cent of the vote; 2 per cent were uncommitted; Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Fred Harris, Sargent Shriver and Ellen McCormack had 1 per cent each.

The delegates were divided proportionately, and Carter won 69, Udall 58, 4 were uncommitted and 2 were for Wallace.

In Maryland, the final count was:

Brown 284,271 or 49 per cent
Carter 217,166 or 37 per cent

Udall got 5 per cent, Wallace — who won the 1972 Maryland primary after being shot and paralyzed while campaigning there — got 4 per cent, Jackson and Mrs. McCormack each had 2 per cent, and Harris got 1 per cent.

In separate balloting for delegates, Carter won 32, Jackson 10, Udall 7 and 4 were uncommitted.

Ford, who picked up 98 delegates Tuesday to 29 for Reagan, still trails in the delegate count, but he narrowed the gap signifigantly.

Weather

Day of mourning for slain church leaders

and TONY AULT
PB Staff Writers

Chino community leaders reacted with "extreme shock" and anger Tuesday to the slayings of two church leaders who were gunned down while patrolling outside Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.

Police, meanwhile, were still searching for suspects in the deaths of Manuela Cortez, 29, and Ignacio "Bobby" Padilla, 43, who were killed Monday by bullets fired from across the street from the church.

Chino Mayor Bob McLeod declared a period of mourning for the slain leaders and said city flags would be flown at half-mast during the funeral masses for Mrs. Cortez and Padilla. Mass for Mrs. Cortez will be celebrated Friday at 9 a.m. at the church.

Mr. Padilla, father of six children, was a maintenance worker for the City of Chino.

Relatives were flying from the East to attend mass for Mr. Padilla, with arrangements pending.

A reward was being offered by the church's parish council for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the killings.

The Rev. Robert Erickson of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church in Chino announced his parish has committed $1,000 to the reward fund and Chino Champion Publisher Al McCombs personally offered $500.

McLeod told a shocked parish council meeting Tuesday that he had lost a "personal friend" in Padilla. He asked the council to consider accepting help from other nearby Catholic parishes in protecting the church.

The victims had been patrolling the church in an anti-vandalism campaign. Local youths have been believed responsible for defacing church property and other damage in recent months.

The parish council voted Tuesday to continue the patrols at the church at Fourth and D streets, despite the killings. They termed the move an "aggressive" stand against violence.

Council members also said they would back the police 100 per cent in doing "whatever they deem necessary to handle the problem."

McLeod, who excused himself from the City Council meeting to join the parishioners at their session, said he reacted with "extreme shock, anger and total concern for the community."

The victims who lost their lives were "totally dedicated to the church and community." McLeod said he would attend masses for the slain church leaders.

"And we will dedicate ourselves to correcting the error done last night (Monday)."

The parish council, which includes many members of the Chino Community Action Council, took a hard stand against the violence. "We're not going to be dictated to by a bunch of hard-core criminals," said one council member. "If we can't solve the problem right at our church, we might as well forget it."

Another church member was worried, however, about "starting a war with our youth."

Martin Salgado, president of the parish council, said "We've disturbed their (the youths) little nest here by asking them to quit drinking and loitering here. If that's harassment, then we are harassing them."

Several council members called Padilla and Mrs. Cortez "martyrs" and vowed to continue antivandalism efforts. They termed the patrols a "rat pack."

The Rev. Manuel Guillen, church pastor, said "evil is running rampant." He said ex-convicts over 18 are causing the problems. There is a Mexican mafia trying to manipulate the community."

Father Guillen said the church property had become a place to deal in illegal drugs.

Police Chief Jerry Doyle said Tuesday that the church parishioners standing guard duty have been reporting numerous verbal threats made by a group of youths who call themselves the "Chino Sinners." Doyle said that there are direct and indirect links to the Sinners being involved in the shooting incident.

Further details of the tragic slayings were revealed Tuesday by Chino

Community, school delegates named to supt. selection panel

Names of 17 individuals to serve on the superintendent selection advisory committee were announced Tuesday night at Pomona school board meeting.

Names as community representatives were Mrs. Jo Bugley, Rafael Chavarria, Mrs. Cynthia Cook, Mrs. Sherry Garland, Joseph A. Gendron, Mrs. Fran Livingston, Mrs. Shirley Robbins, John R. Speidel, Kenneth Stewart, Mrs. Martha Vejar and Councilwoman Georgia Grove.

Those named to represent employes of the school district were Jack L. Jones, president of Chapter 14, California School Employes Association; Mrs. Josephine Sigler, representing Associated Pomona Teachers; Melvin E. Banks, representing the Black Educators Association; Rafael Estupinian, representing the Association of Mexican-American Educators; and James E. Taylor, representing the Pomona Administrators Association.

Board President Mary Montes described the advisory committee as "a very strong group" and said members will be asked to attend an orientation meeting Friday at 7 p.m. in the Education Center.

At that meeting, committee members will be given instructions by Mrs. Montes and board member Don Donnelly and probably select a chairman.

More than 100 educators filed applications for the position of superintendent of schools in Pomona left open last October when Robert E. Wentz resigned. Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services, has served as acting superintendent since that time. He is an applicant for the top job.

Robert Stout of Claremont, dean of public school administration at Cal State Fullerton, heads the superintendent screening committee. He and two assistants, Ray Cortines, Pasadena school superintendent, and Conrad Briner of the Claremont Graduate School, have spent the past two weeks narrowing the field of applicants to the top "12 or so."

The advisory committee is to judge strengths and weaknesses of the top candidates, Stout said.

The school board agreed to pay committee members up to $50 a day for child care or lost earnings while serving in an advisory capacity, all actual and necessary expenses incurred by board members in the selection process and one-half the air fare of out-of-area candidates who come to Pomona for interviews.

It is anticipated a new superintendent will be named by July 1 or before.

Map for controversial apt. complex approved

A tentative parcel map for a controversial proposed 72-unit apartment complex in Chino was routinely approved by the City Council Tuesday night.

The Planning Commission earlier had approved the parcel map for the apartments at the southeast corner of Mountain Avenue and Riverside Drive.

A condition of the approval, also O.K.'d by the council, was removal or relocation of a well now used for irrigation of land west of the five-acre parcel.

Developer P. J. McDermott reportedly has been experiencing difficulties in relocating the well on the property.

The apartment complex has been opposed by Chinoans Acting for Responsible Environment (CARE), a group of residents living near the site. However, Tuesday night's action was merely a formality as the project had been approved by the commission in January.

CARE had strongly fought the apartments for several months. No one from the group was in the audience Tuesday when the parcel map was approved.

Upland parents voice concerns over school boundary changes

By STEVE TABOR
PB Correspondent

Nearly 150 persons attended a brief Upland school board meeting Tuesday night at which time the board again heard public opinion on proposed school boundary changes.

But board members indicated they weren't ready to announce a decision.

Ken Weeks, 1017 Ukiah Way, Upland, presented some revisions in the boundary change proposal on behalf of parents residing in a "middle zone" whose children would be most affected by the boundary redesigning. The middle zone takes in the area west of Euclid Avenue to Benson Avenue and in between 17th and 20th streets.

Other speakers at the public hearing voiced a continued concern over the "destruction of neighborhood schools" and called upon the board to preserve that concept.

Two of the three plans under consideration by the board would effect children in three of the nine K-6 school areas (K-6 schools are kindergarten through sixth grade.)

These plans would involve the busing of 102 students from Valencia district to Sycamore, 17 from Valencia to Sierra Vista and 83 students from Cabrillo to Baldy View school.

One parent felt that a bond issue may have to be floated in the future to keep the neighborhood school concept operable.

Due to a large amount of home construction on Mountain and San Antonio avenues, a new school may have to be constructed within five or six years, Supt. Bill Plaster told the parents.

Board President Barry Brandt was asked if the board had come to a decision on the third plan to be used for the boundary change. He told the parents, "I don't think the board is prepared to make a public statement yet."

He clarified his own position when he said, "Personally, I'm against any plan which changes from year to year." This plan would change from 1976-1980 in three stages.

William Rugg, another school board member, added that the board "had no preconceived ideas" on the matter. He told the audience the board still had to "look around and study further before we make our mind up."

The board will hold a brief public hearing again on May 25 at which time it will consider any proposed revisions of the Citizen's Select Committee on School Boundaries proposals for boundary changes. Following the hearing the board will make a final decision in a public meeting.

Gov. sued over food stamps

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A coalition of aged, blind and disabled groups have filed suit against Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s administration over administration of the food stamp program.

California Rural Legal Assistance, which filed the suit Tuesday in federal court, claims that California's 700,000 aged, blind and disabled have been denied food stamps since Jan. 1, 1974.

Philadelphia PTA to meet

A Bicentennial program will be presented during the regular PTA unit meeting Thursday at Philadelphia School in Pomona.

The program will be in the school cafeteria at 7 p.m.

Marv Phillips, a graduate of Pomona High School, will be guest speaker. Phillips, a nationally prominent weight lifter, is a resource officer at Ganesha High School.

The fourth grade students, directed by teachers James Armstrong, Mary Perkins, Kathrane Wilcoxon, Kathleen Compton and Connie Struve, will present the Bicentennial program. The PTA officers for 1976-77 will be introduced.

The School Advisory Committee and fourth grade mothers will be cohosts for the evening.

If bond issue passes

First school project picked in Cucamonga

By DAVID READER
PB Correspondent

An elementary school for 600 students would be the first phase of a building program that would result from passage of a $10 million bond measure in June in Cucamonga's Central School District.

The school board indicated this aim Tuesday night in a "statement of purpose" requested by a citizens committee working for passage of the bonds.

Location of the school would be a district-owned site on Church Street, members said.

Committee members present at the board meeting expressed the feeling that in order to convince the voters that a successful bond election is necessary, a definite program needs to be outlined.

A former board member, Tip Browne, who is part of the committee, told the board that the citizens group has conducted a telephone campaign to get eligible voters to register for the June primary, and also ascertain the public's feelings on the bond election.

Browne said that there seems to be very little opposition to the "philosophy" of a needed building program.

The board approved an agreement signed between Acting Supt. John McClary and Central Teachers Organization President Andrew Carlmark to recognize CTO as the bargaining representative for certificated employes in salary negotiations with the district. The agreement is for one year.

In a related matter, the board acknowledged receiving CTO's contract proposal for 1976-77.

In order to conform to the State Education Code, the board adopted a policy that will allow for certificated employes to have five days bereavement leave if out-of-state travel is involved. The previous policy was for three days only.

Another adopted policy measure will have summer school teachers, in the event that they are ill, pay the $25 a day salary for a substitute instructor. In previous years the policy had been utilized, but had not been formally approved by board action.

'Dr. X' indicted in hospital deaths

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — A Bergen County grand jury investigating up to 13 unexplained hospital deaths of the mid-1960s in the "Dr. X" case has indicted a surgeon on five charges of murder.

The surgeon, Dr. Mario E. Jascalevich of Englewood Cliffs, N.J., is charged in the case in which it was suspected that patients were given large doses of the drug curare. It is a muscle relaxant that can be lethal if administered in large doses.

Jascalevich was arrested this morning, then released after posting a property bond of $150,000. He was not immediately available for comment.

The deaths at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell were attributed originally to unknown medical causes, but recent reports indicate they may have been caused by curare.

Five of the bodies were exhumed earlier this year to determine whether curare had been injected. Dr. Michael Baden, New York City deputy chief medical examiner, said that at least nine of the deaths were "not explainable by natural disease processes or stated causes of death."

Baden also said the deaths were probably caused by a drug such as curare.

Jascalevich, 48, worked at the hospital in the early 1960s. Eighteen vials of curare were found in his locker there by a colleague in 1966, shortly after the last of the deaths. The doctor said he was using the drug in experiments on dogs. He left the hospital in 1966 after an investigation of the deaths by county authorities. Because of a lack of evidence, the case was dropped.

Nuclear power bills approved

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Bills to allow the legislature to ban new nuclear power plants have survived a "do-or-die" committee test.

Backers say the bills are now back on a tight schedule and headed toward the desk of Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.

The Senate Public Utilities, Transit and Energy Committee, which nearly killed the bills last week, approved each bill with one vote to spare Tuesday night.

The package is described as a "moderate" alternative to California's controversial nuclear power initiative on the June 8 ballot.

The committee rejected amendments to exempt more nuclear plants, but it adopted a new method for legislators to determine whether it is safe to proceed. These issues were nearly lethal to the bills last week.

Supporters' timetable calls for a Senate Finance Committee vote next Monday and May 28 action by Brown, who has endorsed them. That would give voters about a week to study their impact before voting on Prop. 15.

The governor and his top energy advisers have sidestepped taking a stand on Prop. 15 — a torrid political issue — at least until the bills are decided upon.

The bills do not go as far as the initiative in restricting nuclear development. Chief differences are that the bills exempt three reactors already certified and four others being built.

Also, the Assembly earlier killed a bill to match the initiative's requirement that liability limits be lifted to allow unrestricted nuclear power.

The first Senate hurdle for the Assembly-passed package probably was the toughest, and it was "do or die" because of the time constraints, its backers said.

Malcolm McKillup, a Pacific Gas & Electric Co. counsel and leading opposition spokesman Tuesday night, called the measures "a disaster" to the future of nuclear power in California. He said the bills create a "cloud of doubt" that could make the industry hesitate before investing big money in nuclear power.

Assemblyman Charles Warren, D-Los Angeles, the driving force behind the Assembly-approved measures, had declared the bills dead a week ago, after the Senate committee adopted amendments that he said made the measures meaningless.

Opponents tried to eliminate the legislators' role and "grandfather" at least two planned nuclear power complexes, Wasco near Bakersfield and Sundesert near Blythe.

The bills were amended Tuesday night to change the way the legislature could ban new nuclear plant construction.

Now they would allow normal development unless either house of the legislature, by majority vote, rejects within 100 legislative days a state Energy Commission finding that technology has been developed for safe nuclear fuel recycling and disposing of radioactive waste.

Larry Levine, spokesman for the "Yes on 15 Committee," said the change in legislative review from a majority vote of both houses on the fuel cycle safety questions caused his group to drop support of the bills and take a neutral stance.

A leader of the campaign against Prop. 15, former Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown, said later in a telephone interview that the amended bills are "far better than the ones they started with. I trust they will help defeat the initiative. Legislative bills are so much superior to special interest (initiatives)."

McKillup succeeded in gaining new wording so that the bills' would allow the Energy Commission to base its findings on waste disposal methods before an actual site is built and demonstrated.

Otherwise, argued McKillup and Alan Pasternak, an energy commissioner, there could be a built-in moratorium of up to 10 years. That's because the federal government does not expect to certify a waste disposal operation until about 1985, Pasternak said.

Warren argued that the federal government has claimed it had the technology to store wastes but had to abandon the project.

That's why, Warren said, some form of legislative review is essential, so that elected representatives could ban new development if they felt the federal government should do more than just say it has the technology.

Personal income increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher payrolls in distribution industries helped quicken the growth in Americans' personal income during April, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said personal income increased at an annual rate of 10.9 per cent in April to an annual rate of $1,347.6 billion. That represented faster growth than the 9.6 per cent jump at an annual rate in March.

The latest growth means per capita personal income in the United States now stands at $6,271 contrasted to $6,223 in March.

It also means personal income so far this year is now running 10.5 per cent ahead of the first four months of last year. Personal income increased at 7.9 per cent during all of 1975.

Combined with a reduced inflation rate during the early part of this year, the steady growth in personal income means more money available for spending by consumers as well as more fuel for the economic recovery.

Consumer prices in the January-March period rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.9 per cent, lowest in any quarter since the three-month period ending in June 1972.

Personal income represents all wages, salaries and other payments received by individuals before deduction of income and sales taxes. It represents much of the foundation of the economy.

Personal income has now increased for nine consecutive months. The growth in April of $11.6 billion at an annual rate was the largest since February's $12.4 billion.

Commerce said the primary influence behind the faster growth in April was a $5.4 billion jump in private wages and salaries, which had risen $4.4 billion in March.

Huge profits made off government contracts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Three private social service firms in San Francisco made huge profits off government contracts with little cost scrutiny by local government, the Sacramento Bee reports.

According to the draft of a federal audit report, one company, Homemaking Sojourners, made a profit of 7,035 per cent on an $859 investment in its first year, the newspaper said Tuesday.

The audit was also quoted as recommending that the state Department of Health repay the federal government nearly $1 million in improper federal reimbursements to the three companies.

The companies have government contracts for homemaker chore services, one of the fastest-growing welfare programs. It provides housekeeping services for aged or disabled welfare recipients.

The program, considered a promising method of reducing the soaring nursing care costs in welfare programs, has run into cost problems of its own.

San Francisco's program was found to have a $2.6-million deficit in 1974-75, and the state may run up an $18-million deficit this year, the Bee said.

Spotlight on area crime

Girl, 14, held for taking shot at fellow student

A 14-year-old girl was arrested Tuesday and accused of taking a shot at a student at Pomona High School the day before.

The girl, who lives near the school, was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder. She was confined at Juvenile Hall.

Police said the girl fired one shot in the air and a second at Wayne M. Blaylock, 16, late Monday afternoon. They said the incident occurred on the students' parking lot and was the result of an earlier argument.

Officers reported that the girl threatened the youth after football practice, went home and got a .22-caliber revolver and returned and chased him across the parking lot, firing two shots at a range of about 40 yards. No one was hurt.

The incident was not reported until Tuesday.

$5,000 shop theft

Tools and power equipment valued at $5,000 were stolen in a burglary at Addmore Cabinet Shop at 1350 Palomares St. in LA VERNE.

The burglary was discovered Tuesday morning by foreman Jerry Horn. The loot included an air hammer, electric screwdriver and electric motors, Officer Dave Cazares said.

Prof's tires slashed

In CLAREMONT Cal Poly professor A. M. Metwalli found the four radial tires on his car slashed and the vehicle plastered with "Vote No on Recall" flyers when he arose this morning.

His car was parked in his driveway on an alley at the rear of his home at 425 W. 12th St. The professor said he took no part in the recall election politics. His children attend Foothill Country Day School.

A 41-year-old COVINA area man was arrested Tuesday afternoon on charges of cultivating marijuana plants after sheriff's deputies went to his residence at 18237 Devannah St. to mediate a neighborhood quarrel.

The suspect, Gerald Francis McKnight, was arrested by deputies who reported finding 15 plants growing in his front and rear yards. One, in the backyard, was four feet tall, they said. All were uprooted and confiscated.

McKnight was booked at the sheriff's station in San Dimas. The nature of the original complaint was not revealed.

Man badly beaten

A La Puente man faces eye surgery as the result of a beating he absorbed Tuesday outside the Alibi East, a tavern in POMONA at 225 S. San Antonio Ave.

The victim, David Vega, 24, told police later that day that he was threatened by an unidentified man while sitting at the bar. When he left at closing time the man was outside waiting. Vega was beaten, knocked down and kicked in the face. The glasses he wore were shattered and pieces of glass embedded in one eye.

Vega was treated at Queen of the Valley Hospital in West Covina and was released. But physicians there told him he probably will have to undergo surgery to remove the particles from the eye.

Vega said he was attacked by a Latin about 22, 6 feet and 190 pounds.

Father Guillen said he was in the parish hall at the time of shooting. Hearing the shots he said he turned and saw Mrs. Cortez stagger into the parish hall and collapse from a single gunshot wound of the chest.

Father Guillen said he went outside and saw Padilla lying on the ground and other church members attempting to aid him. He said the church members who had just begun their guard duty at the church were standing in the southeast portion of the court yard that separates the chapel from the parish hall behind a brick and wrought iron fence when the shooting began.

Chief Doyle said it appeared as though the shots had come from behind or near a brick wall across the street about 50 feet away. "Mrs. Cortez was sitting in a chair and Bobby Padilla was standing about 10 feet in front of her. Padilla apparently turned as the first shots rang out and was hit once in the chest. The gunman fired numerous shots, a number coming through the wrought iron gate."

Police on the scene found six or seven shell casings from a small caliber weapon near the brick wall across the street. The parishioners standing in the court yard could not remember just how many shots were fired.

Doyle said that the shots were most likely fired by one gunman. "Most of the witnesses said that it was a handgun, but its more likely it was a rifle," said Doye.

Police this morning continue their search for a brown, shiny "lowrider" Chevrolet car seen leaving the church area moments after the shooting incident.

Doyle said that detectives are working on several leads and it appears as though five or six persons may have been involved in the shooting incident.

He said this morning, "We have no suspects at this time although we have talked to a number of people we believed are involved. It may be a few days before we have enough information to make an arrest."

THEY'RE ENGAGED — Frank Sinatra and Barbara Marx, divorced wife of Zeppo Marx, are shown in London in 1974. On Tuesday, a syndicated entertainment columnist reported they will marry soon.

Sinatra to wed Zeppo Marx's ex

NEW YORK (AP) — After four years of going steady, Frank Sinatra has given Barbara Marx a diamond ring and they will marry soon, says "Suzy" of the New York Daily News.

The syndicated gossip columnist said in Wednesday's editions of the News that the singer, who is 60, and the fortyish former wife of Zeppo Marx, have not set the date.

In Los Angeles, a spokesman for Sinatra said everybody concerned was "traveling at the present time" and declined further comment.

Several Sinatra friends said they had not heard of any marriage plans.

Suzy said "Frank's closest pals always knew that if he decided to try marriage again it would be with Barbara."

Mrs. Marx, she added, "seems to understand Sinatra better than anyone else and hangs in there when a fellow needs a friend."

Sinatra previously married Nancy Barbato, Ava Gardner and Mia Farrow. Mrs. Marx is divorced from 75-year-old Zeppo, one of the original four Marx Brothers.

Hayden closing the gap

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former antiwar activist Tom Hayden has more than doubled his support among voters for the Democratic U.S. senatorial nomination, a new public opinion poll reported today.

In a telephone survey of 695 Democrats earlier this month, the California Poll found that Hayden had increased his support from 15 to 33 per cent over the past six weeks.

Incumbent Sen. John Tunney, meanwhile, has lost eight percentage points but is still favored by 50 per cent of the Democrats surveyed.

Crosses burned in San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Police say they are taking no extraordinary measures following a sudden rash of cross burnings on the lawns of black persons here.

A total of four crosses have been found in recent days, most of them in the integrated neighborhood of South San Diego.

The most recent one was found late Monday night when a 21-foot crucifix of burning grass was found in a park in the integrated district of Paradise Hills.

Nuclear danger denied

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An expert on nuclear engineering says atomic powerplants are less hazardous than many risks people take for granted.

Dr. Norman C. Rasmussen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology told a news conference that nuclear power is less of a threat to California than earthquakes or the chance of industrial accidents.

"There are risks involved with nuclear plants, but these risks are small when compared to other risks which society accepts," he said.

Rasmussen, head of MIT's department of nuclear engineering, authored the report.

Demo Central Committee endorses 2 transit issues

The Los Angeles County Democratic Central Committee has endorsed the Los Angeles County propositions R and T — the 232-mile rapid transit proposal — to appear on the June 8 ballot.

Key items for the endorsement were a plan to begin building immediately and the claim that the rapid transit system would use existing rights-of-way along freeways, flood control channels and existing railroad rights-of-way.

County Supervisor Baxter Ward is spearheading the campaign for passage of the propositions which would raise sales taxes one per cent to finance the rail system estimated to cost $5.8 billion. A thousand-car fleet is envisioned, stretching from Santa Monica to Pomona and San Fernando to San Pedro.

In giving their endorsement, Democrats cautioned their members to inform the public that both propositions must pass for the rapid transit plan to go into effect.

STAN CARROLL, Democratic candidate in the 64th Assembly District, has called for state income and property tax reforms.

The candidate said the state income tax structure has become so complex that accountants must be hired to figure them. "It can and should be simplified," he added.

He also attacked the present tax system as being unfair. "California must end the unfair tax treatment of our older citizens.

"We must end the special tax loopholes for banks, corporations and insurance companies with their home offices in California," said Carroll.

BETTY WILSON, Democratic candidate in the 33rd Senatorial District, has proposed extensions in the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law that would benefit renters and help those hit hard by inflation.

"Assistance must be extended to include renters," she urged. "Many elderly people rent and pay property taxes through their rent checks. They are entitled to the same aid given those who own their homes."

She proposed adding a cost-of-living factor to the qualifications for aid. "Senior citizens who need property tax assistance may not be eligible in the future if their income rises with inflation. They will need the aid just as badly, but under present law they will lose part or all of their reimbursement."

By adding a cost-of-living adjustment to the program, this would give older citizens the dignified retirement they have worked for, said Mrs. Wilson.

CECIL GREEN, a Democratic candidate in the 33rd Senatorial District, described a study of voting records by the Assembly Republican Caucus as a "misguided partisan effort that may discourage new businesses from settling in California."

The Norwalk mayor said the report tries to portray Democratic Party leaders as being "anti-business." The Republicans, charged Green, evaluated the votes of legislators on 15 measures to compute a "commerce quotient" as a percentage rating of each Assembly member's attitude toward business, jobs and economic productivity.

"By rigging their own voting rating, Republicans are using scare tactics that, in effect, tell the business community not to expand existing plants in the state or locate new plants here," he said.

Bills chosen by Republicans included legislation to increase unemployment insurance benefits, bring California farm workers under the protection of unemployment insurance, establish "lifeline" electrical and gas rates for the needy, expand prohibitions against unemployment discrimination based on age and equalize the vote required to tax banks and corporations with that needed to tax individuals, reported Green.

Supporters of JAMES GONSALVES, Democratic candidate in the 64th Assembly District, will hold a "gala gathering" Thursday at the La Mirada Country Club.

A reception starts at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:30. Persons wanting information on the event may phone the campaign headquarters at (213) 943-3713.

Gonsalves, son of the former area assemblyman, Joe Gonsalves, had served as a deputy to the First District Los Angeles County Supervisor.

Regional planning group to convene

The San Gabriel-Pomona Valley Regional Planning Council will meet Monday at 3 p.m. at the Los Angeles County Arboretum in Arcadia. Mrs. Joseph Wyatt, council chairman, said the meeting will be open to the public.

The speaker will be Seth M. Hufstedler, cochairman of the Public Commission on County Government. "To Serve Seven Million" will be his subject. He will explain specific recommendations under study by the Board of Supervisors for possible submission to voters in the future.

Hufstedler, an attorney, is a past president of the Los Angeles County Bar Association and the California State Bar Association.

L.V. Rotary to convene

The La Verne Rotary Club will hear a discussion on problems involved in community growth management when it holds its meeting Thursday noon at Castaway Restaurant, Pomona.

The speaker will be Melvin Belcher.

Senate taps P.C. student

Jose Ramon Hermocillo, a Pomona College student, will accept a 1976-77 fellowship in the California Senate following his graduation next month.

The student, now a research assistant at Pomona College, has a 3.64 grade point average. His selection was announced by Senate President Pro Tempore James R. Mills.

As a Senate fellow, Hermocillo will report on Oct. 1 to a key Senate committee to serve from nine to 12 months. He will receive $764 a month and participate in seminars with key California figures.

Hermocillo resides at 1428 Primrose St., Upland.

Mills urged other students who will graduate from college next year to contact the Senate Internship Selection Panel in Sacramento. Six fellows are selected each year.

Area urged to mull aftermath of Expo

Mayor Harold Hayes of Montclair will ask city and Chamber of Commerce officials in the valley to serve on an ad hoc committee to study the after-effects of Expo '81 at the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Admitting that the world's fair would be a "tremendous stimulant to the economy of the area," Hayes voiced some concerns about the post-planning effects and impact upon the local communities.

The last Class 1 World's Fair in the United States was the New York fair in 1939.

The tentative dates for the fair are May 1, to Nov. 1, 1981. The Bureau of International Expositions in Paris, France, is expected to give formal approval of the dates by Aug. 28.

Hayes said the preparation stages for the fair and the economic stimulation during the event will most likely be extremely positive for all cities and unincorporated areas of the valley.

"However, now is the time to look at the post-planning effect and impact upon the communities. What will be the effect of absorbing when the letdown comes? Are we going to be able to absorb? Can we fill the void after the Expo leaves for the motels, public transportation, restaurants?" he asked.

"Now is the time that we collectively — elected officials and chamber (of commerce) representatives — should examine the socio-economic post-Expo impact. Will there be an economic depression afterwards? We must try to answer these questions now."

City Administrator Lauren Wasserman said that staff had done some tentative study of potential problems and developments stemming from Expo '81. "Studying this will be a greater role for staff now that the exposition is a certainty. We want to participate to the full advantage of the city and business community," Wasserman said.

The council approved a letter to Mayor Paul Treadway of Ontario, voicing concerns and encouraging cooperation among the cities to promote a "meeting of minds."

City and business representatives throughout the valley will be contacted to determine their interest in the ad hoc committee.

Bribery charges filed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Suspended Long Beach Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr. has been formally charged with two counts of bribery.

Charges filed Monday by the district attorney's office allege that Mayer solicited a bribe of more than $25,000 in Mexican gold coins from two architects in return for favorable action on two multimillion-dollar real estate projects and that Mayer accepted a total of $26,950 in other bribes between 1971 and 1974.

The architects, James Coppedge and Claflin A. Ballance, allegedly gave Mayer the coins in a shoe box, which he was carrying when arrested last week, investigators said.

Mayer is to appear for arraignment Friday in Long Beach Municipal Court.

The 23rd annual Youth Safety Run will be held June 21, 22 and 23 beginning at Rosemont Pavilion, near Pasadena's Rose Bow, it was announced today.

The trek, a test of fuel economy safe driving and sportsmanship, will be to Yosemite National Park and return. For the 23rd straight year, the event is sponsored by the Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs with the Union Oil Co., Arcadia Civitans Club, Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association, and R. G. Canning Diversified Companies Unlimited cosponsoring the run and supplying both financial and personal assistance.

About 150 participants driving approximately 50 automobiles will make up the run. In addition 25 cars containing 50 officials will accompany them and supervise the event.

The Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs is made up of 44 police officers from 27 departments throughout Southern California and Nevada. Ganesha youths assist orphanage

By JANENE WHITNEY
Ganesha Correspondent

The Casa de Esperanza orphanage in Tijuana, Mexico, was visited by 23 Ganesha students and five advisers May 10.

The students, members of the Ganesha High School Interact Club, delivered a truckload of canned food, clothing, and other much needed articles to the Mexican orphanage. The truck was donated by Casa Colina Hospital in Pomona.

Ninety orphans ranging in ages from infants to 18-year-olds live at the Casa de Esperanza, and each year the Interact Club makes a visit.

This time, the only English speaking person at the orphanage was not present, and only one member of the Interact group spoke any Spanish. However, many students declared that few words were needed to please the orphans.

After receiving a guided tour of the Casa de Esperanza, the party went shopping in Tijuana and then headed back across the border.

Interact Club is a service club sponsored by the National Rotary Club. The Ganesha adviser to the group is Verne Evans.

Burger seeks closer link to Congress on court matters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger complained on Tuesday that Congress often ignores the Supreme Court when considering judicial legislation.

"The nine members of the Supreme Court are physically separated from the halls and offices of the Congress by a few acres of pleasant parkland, yet it seems very difficult for us to have our views reach across that park," Burger told the American Law Institute.

Addressing members of the institute at the opening of their annual meeting here, the chief justice urged Congress "to help us develop a closer working relationship, especially on legislation affecting the courts."

As he has before, Burger called for the elimination of special three-judge district courts, from which cases are appealed directly to the Supreme Court without passing through courts of appeals. The law requires the Supreme Court to consider all these cases. But the highest court can select which cases from the courts of appeals it will consider.

Referring to the three-judge courts, the chief justice said there is "about as much need for this kind of court as for piston engines on large passenger airplanes — perhaps less."

"As these direct appeals — ususally on inadequate records and always without the benefit of a court of appeals analysis — reach us, I wish that the lawyer members of the Congress could sit down in the shade of the trees in that park that separates us and find out what the nine justices think about this piston engine litigation," he said.

Burger said 92 such cases have been filed with the high court during its current term.

The chief justices also renewed previous criticisms of the Speedy Trial Act which was passed by Congress over the opposition of the Judicial Conference of the United States, a body of federal judges over which the chief justice presides.

Burger said the cost of the law has been about $5 million so far "and several times that will ultimately be required."

He said the judges opposed the legislation "because we were apprehensive that the rigidities it contained would lead to unfortunate consequences."

He said some cases "by their nature do not lend themselves to trial in 90 or even 180 days or into any such inflexible patterns." Burger also expressed concern about the number of arrests for serious crimes which involve persons who are on probation, parole or some other form of release.

Mail damage ignored, panel told

WASHINGTON (AP — Serious damage to packages in the mail has been ignored by high postal officials, former managers of two large postal facilities said today.

"The majority of the management of the Postal Service would rather cover up their failures than admit them," said Earl Aussenberg, who managed the Washington Bulk Mail Center.

Aussenberg told a House Post Office subcommittee he does not include Postmaster Gen. Benjamin F. Bailar in this group, but does include senior Assistant Postmaster Gen. E. V. Dorsey.

"Ben Bailar has been carefully isolated from the truth about the bulk mail system," Aussenberg said. "It's easier to put up a stone wall than to admit mistakes and do something about it."

The Postal Service fired Aussenberg early this year, saying he had failed to prevent destruction of mail. Aussenberg denied any wrongdoing.

Testifying with him under oath was Richard Coffman, who was removed as manager of the Atlanta Bulk Mail Center.

The bulk mail system is a highly-automated network of 21 facilities for sorting packages and some other mail.

Aussenberg and Coffman pictured themselves as scapegoats of top postal management. Both said they notified their superiors of damage problems caused by mail handling machines but were denied enough manpower to eliminate the problems.

"In January a representative of Dorsey came to the Washington Bulk Mail Center," Aussenberg said. "Damaged mail was all over the place."

Dorsey had told the subcommittee earlier that he had not been aware of a damage problem until March.

School board orders business, personnel offices reorganized

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

Plans to reorganize the business and personnel departments of the Pomona Unified School District at an annual cost of some $82,900 were approved Tuesday by the school board but a plan to reorganize the Educational Services Department was held for further study.

In moving to reorganize business and personnel departments, the school board is implementing two of some 74 recommendations made last February by the State Management Review Team.

Cost of reorganizing the business department is estimated at $51,924 a year. Changes upgrade three existing positions, create seven new positions and delete one existing position, that of custodial department head.

The reorganization calls for a decentralization of budgeting and purchasing procedures and program planning, and equips the district to "catch up with long neglected and emergency conditions" existing in buildings and on grounds.

A second personnel assistant position was established in the personnel department under the reorganization plan approved, along with a new secretary position. Salary for the personnel assistant could range up to $22,220 a year, and for the secretary, $8,568.

Changes are to take effect July 1.

The plan to reorganize educational services which was held over was by far the broadest in terms of personnel changes and greatest in cost, an estimated $114,700.

It called for the creation of six new positions (director of instructional services, coordinator of curriculum development, coordinator of staff development and three new secretary positions), the restoration of coordinator status in both health and psychological services, upgrading of the research specialist position and the deletion of one coordinator of intergroup education position, reassigning that position as coordinator of community involvement.

Further in-depth study of this plan was required, the board agreed.

In written material he presented to the board, acting Asst. Supt. of Educational Services Ray L. Thomas said the state management team had "quickly recognized serious neglects in the realm of curriculum development, staff development and evaluation-research functions.

"No proposal for funding for special state and federal projects would stand a chance for approval without strong components" in these areas, Thomas wrote. He described the existing situation as "a vacuum" and said the result was "fragmentation of efforts among the various projects, with no clear identification with regular district activities."

"As a result, the special projects have sometimes remained isolated," Thomas wrote.

"It is essential that regular district efforts dominate in the realms of curriculum development, staff development and evaluation-research and that special projects augment and enhance these efforts. The alternative is to allow special projects to become the determining force in district educational endeavors."

This year the district has some 24 special state and federal projects in operation bringing in $4.2 million in addition to its $33 million general fund budget.

Almost all the special projects serve children with special educational needs and provide staff and programs over and above the regular school program.

BICENTENNIAL SUPPORT

W. F. Montgomery, left, president and managing officer of Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association, examines a plaque presented by J. Romo, chairman of the Pomona Bicentennial Committee's fund raising project. Mounted on the plaque is a Pomona silver medallion, which are being given for contributions of $200 or more by local firms.

Bicentennial group launches fund drive

The Pomona Bicentennial Committee has launched a fund-raising drive to support plans for a community fiesta this summer and other events celebrating the Bicentennial.

Local business firms are being invited to participate in exchange for specially designed bronze medallions, said J. Romo, chairman of the project.

For every dollar contributed, said Romo, one bronze medallion will be received by the donor. In addition, firms contributing $200 or more will also receive a Pomona silver medallion mounted on a placque.

The medallions commemorate the Bicentennial and Pomona's Centennial.

For information, persons may call Romo at 629-2862.

Researcher claims MWD prices unfair

A Claremont Graduate School student says a six-month study he made shows millions of Southern Californians pay too much for water because of pricing policies of the Metropolitan Water District.

Bruce E. Flaxman said his survey showed there is inequity because a large portion of the MWD's revenues come from property tax assessed equally throughout the district instead of charges based on water actually used.

According to Flaxman, this system causes a huge gap in charges for water delivered to various members of the nation's largest water wholesaler. The City of Los Angeles pays 26 times more for water it receives than the smallest member agencies served by the MWD, the study said.

The survey cited as an example that Los Angeles got only five per cent of it water from the MWD in the fiscal year 1973-74, but paid $531.97 per acre-foot of water. Comparatively, San Diego took 88 per cent of its water from the district and paid only $68.71 per acre-foot, according to the report.

The 75-page report said "There has been no attempt to determine how much the MWD can charge for water consumption or to justify its heavy reliance on the property tax."

Flaxman said state lawmakers should oversee the MWD and should closely analyze MWD pricing policy.

An MWD spokesman said "There is nothing new in the thesis from the Claremont Colleges' student that has not been discussed by the district's board of directors for many years. It's always been a consideration of the board to examine costs based on readiness to serve water as well as the actual amounts of deliveries."

Crash hurts trucker, 75

A Rosemead man suffered serious injuries Tuesday when his truck overturned on the San Bernardino Freeway near Sixth Street in Ontario.

George Gootkin, 75, was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital's intensive care unit where his condition today is termed good.

A passenger, Charles Retherford, 47, of Rosemead, suffered minor injuries. He was treated at the hospital and later released.

Gootkin told highway patrolmen he was driving east on the freeway about 45 miles an hour when a right rear tire blew out, causing him to lose control.

Pomona backs tunnel closure

A resolution asking the State Department of Transportation to close the pedestrian tunnel under the San Bernardino Freeway at Mountain Avenue has been approved by the Pomona City Council.

Similar action has been taken in recent weeks by the Claremont City Council and the Pomona School District.

The actions have been prompted by numerous police incidents involving youths and other persons using the tunnel to elude patrol cars.

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

The Ontario City Council Tuesday night accepted an application for a "contemporary music" concert at the Ontario Motor Speedway but delayed any approval pending a public hearing on June 2.

Sanford Feldman of Baldwin, N.Y., plans to hold the musical program on Sept. 18 from noon to 10 p.m. He expects the event to draw 115,000 patrons.

Feldman also promoted the California Jam held at the speedway in 1974 which drew about 180,000 persons. Although the names of musical groups to perform at the proposed concert weren't discussed, officials earlier described them as "middle-of-the-road" rock performers.

George MimMack, president of the Ontario Motor Speedway Corp. board of directors, urged approval of the application, stating this would give the city $34,000 in "spendable" revenues and the speedway $75,000 which would take care of four months in property taxes.

MimMack said there had been some concern over police protection based on the previous concert.

"The people best equipped to make police decisions are police officers. We do not pretend to set limits. It is up to the police on how policing is to be handled," he added.

Feldman said the California Jam was sponsored by ABC Television and did win an "Emmy" award. The next show is planned by NBC Television and would give Ontario national exposure, he added.

The promoter said the main problems at the California Jam involved traffic and parking control and the concession stands.

These were handled by the speedway at the last concert. But his group would have control at the proposed event, he said.

Bill Hodge, an owner of the National Event Services, said his firm was contacted to handle crowd and traffic control. "I feel confident with the planning we will do with the police and California Highway Patrol, this would eliminate the problem of congestion on the city streets and freeways."

Hodge said that police officials have discussed with his group several proposals to eliminate the traffic congestion that occurred in northeast Ontario during the California Jam.

"We don't think this will happen this time. We will pull vehicles off the freeway quicker. We will be prepared to park them as they arrive."

Hodge said he planned to have some 500 security personnel assigned to handle the concert.

"Even though the promoter will pay for our services, we will report directly to Police Chief Lee Kolbrek. He will have the say where our people will go," said Hodge.

In terms of enforcing the law, Hodge said his employes were not law enforcing officers but they are required to make an arrest if they see a felony crime committed.

"We do make arrests and turn them over to police. We are involved in the prosecution." Hodge said most of his employes are athletes who are attending colleges.

Councilman Beecher Medlin said he understood after the California Jam that Ontario police officers wouldn't work any more festivals.

In response, Chief Kolbrek reported he had spoken to the police officer's board of directors and at this time there was no opposition.

Council member Faye Dastrup asked that if the concert was approved, what the police position would be on enforcing the law on drugs and other violations that caused problems at the California Jam.

Kolbrek said his main concern would be the sale of drugs. "When you put 115,000 people together, there will be drug problems. We would make arrests."

Feldman said he didn't believe the next concert would draw as many persons as the California Jam because the 1974 program was held at the start of the Easter vacation.

The June 2 hearing will start at 7 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

Stranded driver has close call

A San Bernardino man rolling a tire down the San Bernardino Freeway in Ontario early today reportedly suffered an injury to his hand when it brushed the tire of a passing truck.

Moss Guardian, 35, was treated at Ontario Community Hospital and later transferred to a San Bernardino hospital.

Guardian had reportedly removed a flat tire from his car on the freeway near Milliken Avenue and rolled it to a service station to be repaired.

Don Merrill Fitzjohn, 30-year-old San Gabriel man charged with killing his estranged wife and her male companion in La Verne Feb. 22, has pleaded innocent in Pomona Superior Court.

Fitzjohn entered the plea when he appeared before Judge Howard D. McClain who scheduled the trial for Aug. 16. The defendant remained in custody in lieu of bail.

Fitzjohn is accused of murdering his estranged wife, Mrs. Jeannie Beth Fitzjohn, 30, and her companion, Gary Ernest Keltz, 35, in Mrs. Fitzjohn's apartment at 2421 Foothill Blvd.

Sheriff's homicide investigators, who handled the investigation at the request of La Verne police, said the two Fitzjohn children, 6-year-old Sandy and 3-year-old Heather, were in the two-story apartment at the time both victims were shot and witnessed the shooting of their mother.

UC group developing hearing unit for deaf

A surgical implant device is being developed that could restore hearing to some of the 300,000 deaf Americans who cannot be helped by conventional hearing aids, a researcher said Monday in Pomona.

Speaking at a Rancho Los Amigos Hospital workshop at Cal Poly Kellogg West, Dr. Michael M. Merzenich of UC San Francisco said his associates and Stanford University engineers have constructed sophisticated electrodes and electrical stimulation devices that produce a patterned stimulation of the auditory nerve.

Dr. Merzenich said the electronic devices are about the size of a quarter and are connected to electrodes implanted in the inner ear.

"An antenna resembling a hearing aid, placed behind the outer ear, delivers information about sound to the implanted electronic device that decodes it and sends it to the auditory nerve.

"A battery-operated, sound-coding device, to be built into a pocket-size box, sends information by wire to the antenna," he explained.

Capitalizing on socialist failure

The FBI could have saved itself, and taxpayers, all the money and effort it has allegedly expended through the years in spying on the Socialist Labor Party. The best way to save the country from the threat of socialism is to publicize the programs of the socialists.

Capitalism, says Socialist Labor Party presidential candidate Julius Levin, "is the basic cause of all our social ills" and should be placed in the ashbin of history alongside slavery and feudalism.

"It is a sick, crime-ridden, fiscally bankrupt, politically corrupt social system. It cannot provide security and a decent quality of life for the overwhelming majority of the population."

Social problems will not be solved, says Levin, until capitalism is replaced by the system advocated by the SLP — control of industry and government in the hands of the working class and production to satisfy "human needs," not for the sake of profits.

Unfortunately for this candidate's hopes to — pardon the expression — capitalize on the economic and other complaints of Americans, neither he nor any socialist has ever been able to point to any country or any system that has not done infinitely worse.

Indeed, the one major democracy that has ventured farthest along the road to rule by the working class, and closest to national bankruptcy, is now turning back to capitalism.

It may be that things have gone down so far in Britain that they had nowhere to go but up, but latest report is that the country's long-term economic decline has finally bottomed out and is beginning to reverse itself.

Not least among the factors credited for the turnaround is a slash in once-sacrosanct government spending on social programs in order to commit a greater share of national resources to industry and the private sector.

In other words, to generate these nasty profits without which, candidate Levin to the contrary, no country can long afford to pay for its "human needs."

Taming the bureaucracy

The Council for Basic Education reports the following in the "Good News from Here and There" column of its monthly bulletin:

A federal judge has ruled against "sweeping bilingual-bicultural programs" which the Department of Health, Education and Welfare was attempting to force on the Mesa County Valley School District in Colorado.

The judge issued the veto after learning that of the 628 Spanish-surnamed children in the 13,000 student system, only 13 were bilingual or spoke only Spanish. Also, the district already had a program of individualized instruction aimed at bringing non-English-speaking students into regular classrooms fulltime.

File this good news under "T," for Taming the Bureaucracy.

No two exactly alike

Car buyers this year have a choice of more than five quintillion cars. One of the automakers, anyway, has computed that using 11 possible combinations of models, colors, trim, special equipment, etc., it could build 5,153,859,497,004,179,760 different cars, with no two exactly alike.

Theoretically, that is. What it actually means as many who have had some experience in placing special orders with Detroit may testify, is that the are more than five quintillion chances that the car you finally take delivery of will not be exactly as specified.

Think on these things

Rain or shine, our dog, Gus, takes to the woods in search of squirrels. . .never worrying about what he ought to do next. . .his happy yipping rings through the woods as a friendly reminder that this is Gus-territory. . .and squirrels, in particular, should take notice.

Gus never leans into the next moment or the next hour. . .he simply enjoys the present in complete abandonment. . .changing his direction without a moment's notice. . .never hampered by convention or worry about where his next meal is coming from. . .and I realize how wonderful it must be to be so carefree. . .and yet, someone ought to worry for Gus and while I am about it. . .I guess I might as well think a little about tomorrow too.

Ask what is right

Dear Editor:

Your editorial recommending a no vote on Proposition 15 is disturbing, not only because I strongly support a Yes vote, but because of the nature of the argument you advance.

To say that other technologies also had concerned people predicting disaster is irrelevant.

1) The potential for affecting all forms of life due to accidental or terrorist release of radioactive materials makes nuclear questions those of a totally different magnitude. Radiation exposure involves changes to the building blocks of our lives, the DNA molecule, and may cause unknown genetic mutations that take generations to appear.

Likewise, the cancers caused by continual low level radiation releases (NOT huge accidents) may not appear for 20 years: in 1996 will we have to say, "We didn't look carefully enough at long range effects?" Or must we say in 1976 that we've learned from the atmospheric weapons testing program of the last two decades that we've increased background levels of radiation to the extent that the present cancer rate is zooming upwards?

2) We are vainly predisposed to want to believe that "technologically advanced" is good. We need to examine what really are our most fundamental values and use them as the base from which pragmatic, technical decisions are made, not visa versa. These basic values are the preservation of the quality of life and reverence for the interdependence of man and all other life forms on a finite planet.

They are not greater comfort, consumption, or economic growth. (It would be hard for any of us to give up our cars now but supposing the long range effect of internal combustion engines had been examined 100 years ago: what different developments might have taken place in the intervening time involving living patterns, size of engines, mass transit etc. if energy shortages and smog's health hazards had been foreseen?)

Finally, although I personally am not sure what level of risk I would find acceptable in saying go ahead with nuclear power, the Nuclear Initiative is not designed to say yes or no to nuclear power plants. Its purpose is to allow all of us as citizens to be exposed to a thorough and public discussion of the risks imposed by the whole nuclear fuel cycle over a five year period.

There is no "shutdown" unless the proponents of nuclear power can't make their case. We, through our legislators, must take responsibility for evaluating when energy "needs" compromise other needs, what risks are acceptable to ourselves and our children and their children. We cannot allow these decisions to be made behind the closed doors of corporations and governmental bodies who historically have been more interested in influencing and pacifying the public than informing and protecting it.

We need to ask what is right, not what's profitable, competitive, alternative, or even legal. — Jenny Springer, Claremont

A mythical city

Dear Editor:

If I could live in a mythical city of my dreams I'd find there that love and business were not natural enemies. Examples in this life are rare, but I think I have found one. I know a Pomona nursing home operator. She would make a fine prototype of the future.

She lives in South Pomona with over twenty retarded adults. If you go there, you see as you arrive a carefully painted and tended house and grounds. Nothing else on the block can touch it. Inside everything is sparkling and clean. You learn that every resident has a job to do. At 11 a.m. you find every bed made. Most of the beds, which are occupied by adults, have teddy bears or other cuddly toys waiting for their owners to return from their jobs.

Most of the residents work at sheltered workshops in the area, and use the RTD buses to go and return. The operator lives in her home, sharing living space and food with her residents. They call her "Mom". "Mom's" greatest pleasure is to take her residents out for some fun, say to a dance or to listen to music.

Many of the residents used to live at Pacific State Hospital. Now they live in a home which is not only a credit to its neighborhood, but is the very model of a city of love and kindness.

Pomona needs more of this, not less!! — Daniel N. Fox, Pomona

EPA's costly study of pollution

WASHINGTON — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) spent an incredible $4.2 million to find out that untuned engines spread more pollution than do engines after they are tuned up.

The money was used to test various automobiles to determine whether their exhaust fumes violated clean air standards. We have carefully studied the findings, which have been withheld from the public. They can be boiled down to one basic conclusion: That the worst pollution is spread by cars in "less-than-adequate state of maintenance."

This led the researchers also to conclude, all for the same $4.2 million price, that there is a "need for finding ways of assuring that in-use cars are properly maintained."

The language of the studies is often ponderous, as befits a $4.2 million project. But the conclusion, even after it has been dressed up in scholarly verbiage, was hardly worth $4.2 million. EPA could have obtained the same finding from any competent garage mechanic for, say $4.20.

The EPA official in charge of car pollution control, Eric Stork, cheerfully contends that the $4.2 million data can now be used to convince state and city officials that they should compel owners to keep their cars tuned up.

Thus, EPA would pass the buck to the cities and states, blaming the whole auto pollution problem on poorly tuned engines. But the EPA tests produced evidence that seven engine lines appeared to be violating clean air standards.

If the fumes from these engines were bad enough, EPA was supposed to order the manufacturers to recall all cars powered by the polluting engines. This would have brought in more than two million cars for adjustments, a massive expenditure for the automakers.

A confidential report, which we turned up in our investigation, explained what happened. The auto companies were actually furnished the test results and were permitted to make a case against recall.

"The affected manufacturers requested and received all data related to the testing of their cars and went through these materials in enormous detail," discloses the document. "From that review, various questions as to the validity of the data . . . were identified."

Top EPA officials quickly agreed the test results weren't really valid enough to compel the manufacturers to recall their cars. Stork was one who sided with the auto industry. He wrote a memo on the recall problem, stating: "My suggestion is that we write off this effort as a lost cause and waste no more time on it."

All this leaves of the four-year project, therefore, is the $4.2 million suggestion that auto owners should keep their engines tuned up.

Footnote: A House oversight subcommittee, headed by Rep. John Moss, D.-Calif., has started an investigation to determine why the EPA spent so much money for so little results.

SOVIET SPIES: In secret testimony, the FBI has advised Congress that of the 2,000 Communist diplomats in the United States, "40 per cent of them are active Soviet intelligence officers."

These figures on Soviet KGB agents were revealed behind closed doors by James Adams, the top assistant to FBI chief Clarence Kelley. He testified before a House Post Office subcommittee, which released the transcript of the hearing.

But in the interest of the Soviet-American detente, the committee carefully deleted all references to the Soviets. The sanitized transcript reveals only that the 800 spies were "active intelligence officers."

We have had access to the secret testimony, however, before it was censored. The FBI official tersely identified the 800 spies as officers of Soviet intelligence. Our own sources have confirmed the Soviet agents posed as everything from Russian newsmen to scientific attaches.

Adams was called before the committee to explain the FBI's role in opening first-class mail. He cited the 800 agents as evidence of the enormity of the Soviet spy problem.

As one example, Adams referred to a 1964 case which hasn't previously been disclosed. A Pentagon specialist, in need of fast cash, decided to sell classified information to the Soviets.

The information he was ready to peddle was "highly classified," said Adams. It revealed how the United States could "interfere with a missile system" then under development by the Soviets.

Or, as Adams put it, the traitor planned to "let the Soviets know how we could compromise their missile system." But an FBI mail check turned up a letter the man had written to the Soviet U.N. mission.

The intercepted letter said the traitor would meet the Soviet contact man through use of a coded newspaper ad. But at the rendezvous, FBI agents turned up and arrested the American plotter.

The Pentagon sent a special plane to bring him back to Washington for interrogation. But the illegal mail opening made it impossible to prosecute the case.

However, the traitor was convinced by the FBI and Pentagon to "voluntarily" enter a mental hospital. There he stayed, our sources say, until his secrets were sufficiently "stale" to allow him his freedom.

Adams testified that no one on high objected to the FBI's illegal methods, that no one "said maybe we ought to stop doing this." Now Adams and his colleagues are under fire for the very acts that once brought them praise from their superiors.

Just in jest

One thing you can say for our government officials, they certainly are consistent. Never do they use the same language to describe a given situation. In fact, seldom do they ever agree on a given situation.

I pick up my newspaper and I read that the U.S. Security & Exchange commission is charging many of our large corporations with having paid millions in bribes and payoffs to officials in foreign countries. Then I turn the page and I note that the Vice President of the United States is quoted as having said:

"Multinational corporations have played a major role in the introduction of new technologies around the world and world-wide improvements in managing and marketing."

"Bribes and payoffs?" or "Improvements in managing and marketing?" — It all leaves me slightly confused. But then, maybe those officials are in agreement after all. Bribes and payoffs did produce world-wide improvements in the marketing efforts of those corporations the Security & Exchange Commission is chastizing.

Judicial appointment

By EARL G. WATERS

Many attorneys and judges are watching with more than a little interest the forthcoming action of the judicial qualifications commission which will consider Governor Jerry Brown's nomination of Cruz Reynoso as a justice of the Third District Court of Appeal.

That commission is composed of Chief Justice Donald Wright, Attorney General Evelle J. Younger and the Third District's presiding justice, Robert K. Puglia.

Reynoso, 44, is presently a professor of law at the University of New Mexico, a post he has held for the past four years. Prior to that he, as director of the California Rural Legal Assistance, became the center of a storm during which Governor Ronald Reagan demanded the withdrawal of federal support.

A law graduate of UC's Boalt Hall, Reynoso's career has been one of heavy involvement with "causes" having been, in addition to the Rural Legal Assistance, employed by the Fair Employment Practices Commission and the federal Equal Opportunities Commission.

No doubt this ultra-liberal background, including his Rural Legal activities, is responsible for some of the opposition to his appointment. But the major objections are to his now being an out-of-stater and, more vigorously, his complete lack of judicial experience.

The out of state charge may be a bit unfair since Reynoso was educated in California schools, is a member of the California bar, having practiced privately in El Centro, and has lived most of his life in the state.

Not so easily glossed over is the fact that he does not come from within the district. It is an unwritten understanding among the legal fraternity that the governor shall select those with wide knowledge of the district they will serve. While that rule has not always been followed, a furor has greeted each exception.

Probably none drew more steam than Governor Culbert L. Olson's naming of Paul Peek to the Third District Court way back in 1942. Elected to the Assembly from Long Beach in 1946, he became Speaker in 1939. Because of his fierce loyalty to Olson, he was unseated at a special session in 1940. Olson promptly appointed him Secretary of State to fill the vacancy created by the death of Frank C. Jordan but Jordan's son, Frank M. Jordan, playing on the name of his deceased father defeated him by a mere 6,000 votes at the next election. Olson immediately named him to the court.

Peek was attacked as an outsider even though, as a legislator, he had been spending more time within the appellate district than at home. The vote for his confirmation was 2-0 with the then Attorney General Earl Warren refusing to vote. Peek proved to be a distinguished jurist and was subsequently appointed to the Supreme Court where he served equally well.

Since lawyers prefer that those appointed to the review courts have judicial experience, Reynoso's lack of it may be his biggest hurdle. It is recalled that Chief Justice Wright made this a big issue in the challenge of Reagan's appointment of William P. Clark, Jr., to the Supreme Court. And, although Clark had experience as a trial judge and appellate justice, Harold served some time on the trial court before elevating him to a district court. Exceptions which have been acceptable are those who have had long experience in the practice of all phases of the law.

Probably the most bitter pill of all for the lawyers, judges and knowledgeable citizens, is the passing over of the many able trial judges in the district who have well demonstrated their judicial capabilities. For them it is a slap in the face. For the public it is worse for it subjects them to the decisions of one who is not only inexperienced but may be overly biased in his view on the administration of justice.

Map received, then a refund

I sent a $4.70 check to the firm for two maps.

My check was cashed but I received no maps. I wrote to the firm a month later but got no answer.

I would like my money back. Can you help me obtain it? — J. R., Pomona.

Our letter to Cornucopia produced an answer from Moneysworth at the address you had given us for Cornucopia.

Moneysworth asked for a copy of your canceled check. We had already sent a copy to Cornucopia. We told Moneysworth we saw no reason why we should send another copy.

After that you got your maps but they weren't base-relief.

You were perturbed. Then you got your refund and the world looked brighter, base-relief or not.

Will you please help me get my renter's refund from the Franchise tax Board?

I already had sent in three state income tax forms in an effort to get the refund. The last was mailed a few weeks ago.

All my friends have received theirs. — M. M., Upland.

You also sent us a form. We discovered that you had identified yourself as being single and had also listed yourself as head of household. The instructions are to check only one filing status.

When we talked this over with you, we learned that you are single but have no dependent to qualify you as head of household.

We then sent in a form correctly made out with your signature on it along with a letter explaining your problem. A few days later you received your refund.

My address plate for McCall's shows that I am paid up until September 1976 yet I am getting billing letters, more threatening each time. Can you help me get this straightened out? — P. T., Claremont.

As you sent us a copy of your address sticker with the September 1976 date, we didn't ask you to supply a copy of your canceled check.

McCall's wants one, however, and will straighten our your payment record as soon as one is received.

Mrs. Phyllis Wallace, customer service representative for the magazine, claims your order was placed for a year but that service was suspended in February for non-payment.

She said your expiration date will be extended for all missed orders when McCall's gets either your payment or a copy of the check.

Her letter included an apology for any inconvenience to you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A friend may offer you a deal today. It could be a good one, but make certain you'll not be asked to bear the lion's share of expenses.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Beware of being unyielding or having too fixed an opinion today. You must be prepared to make changes to win your goal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't look for only the negative today, or you'll be stopped cold. It's better to light your one little candle than to curse the darkness.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You can tolerate most any type of person today, but you can't stand tightwads. Avoid those who don't pick up their end of the tab.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It usually rubs against your grain to go, hat-in-hand, seeking favors. Today, circumstances may force you into this awkward position.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Set aside for the time being tasks that you dislike doing. You won't do them properly and you'll irk others with your grumbling.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Normally you're at your best in social situations. Today you tend to come on a little too strong, much to others' annoyance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your mate could be a problem today if you try to push him into something against his will. Treat him with kid gloves.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) At times you have a way of saying things that you feel to be frank and honest, but that others find harsh and blunt. Be careful. Words can wound.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Lock-down in advance arrangements for any work or services you're having performed today. Otherwise, the size of the bill could floor you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Family members may give you good reasons to lose your cool today, but it's to your advantage to be extra-patient. Tomorrow they'll thank you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's not like you to hold a grudge, but today you're liable to put someone down for something he did long ago.

Your Birthday, May 20, 1976

Your prospects for the coming year look very encouraging, but your progress may not be as rapid as you like. Keep in mind: Good things often develop slowly.

Incest—a growing menace

Dear Ann: I want to thank you for speaking out on the problem of incest. I've tried to alert as many mothers as possible to this growing menace but it's a delicate subject.

Some women are horrified but agree the problem should be faced squarely. Others turn red and change the subject. A few have told me I have a filthy mind and such things happen only in "poor, low-class families."

One woman asked what I would do if my daughter was molested or sexually assaulted by a relative. I replied, "First, I'd attempt to find out from the child precisely what happened. Second, I'd call the family doctor and have the child examined. Then I'd call the police and get the dirty rat out of the house for good. After that I'd phone all the members of the family and warn them to keep their children away from that rotten animal if he should turn up."

Thank you for having the courage to deal with such frank material in your column, Ann. You do a wonderful service.— Color Me Grateful

Dear Grateful: Every mother should be alerted to the possibility of incest because it happens in the best of families.

Rather than call the police, however, I suggest a straightforward talk with the man and give him an alternative — psychiatric help or arrest. I would then make sure he is never left alone with children. Next I'd instruct the children to report any out-of-the-way behavior — and I'd be very explicit in describing what "out-of-the-way behavior" is. A second offense would mean packed clothes and a closed door.

Dear Ann Landers: I need someone to tell me what to do. I hope you can help. There isn't anyone I can talk to around here.

About a year ago I met a widower. We became close friends. After a very short time he became ill. I promised him when we started to go toegher that if anything happened to him I would stay at his side and take care of him.

I was his constant companion, nurse, cook, housekeeper and friend, until he passed away ten days ago.

When I learned I was not even mentioned in his will I was shocked and hurt. His children got everything. The man promised me he'd see to it that I was well provided for but he didn't keep his word.

Don't you think I am entitled to be paid for ten months of very hard work? What should I do? Does a person like me have any legal rights? If so, what are they? — True Friend Cheated

Dear Friend: You need a lawyer, not Ann Landers. If you can't afford the regular fees, call Legal Aid.

Dear Ann Landers: The man I had a child by last year is getting married soon. We broke up while I was pregnant. He decided to marry his former girlfriend. I was told I'd get an invitation to the wedding. It came yesterday.

Should I go or stay away? I don't want people to think I wasn't invited — or worse yet, that I was too heartbroken to attend. On the other hand, I'd hate to look like a damned fool. I'll do as you say.— Miss ???

Dear ???: Deep down you'd be uncomfortable, no matter how hard you tried to appear nonchalant. My advice is stay home.

New West bows in Old West

What's new in the West? New West.

Like Juan Cabrillo's galleon venturing nervously into the uncharted waters of Southern California in 1542, a new magazine has dropped anchor in the perilous and unpredictable publishing tides of the Gold Coast, for better or for worse. Will it flourish and grow rich in the quiet waters of our semi-tropical Never-Never Land, or will it founder on the shoals of sinking circulation and the reefs of advertising revenues? Time (Magazine) will tell.

New West is a fat (172 pages) glossy, compendium of advertising (91 pages), political comment, art criticism, activity calendars and editorial essays on everything from music and theater to the wedge haircut. It's big, bold, cluttered, interesting and occasionally enlightening. The "premiere issue" headlined "Who Is Shaping the Future of California?" a tedious essay on Jerry Brown and 76 other figureheads, but omitting the San Andreas Fault.

The ingredients that go into this latest publishing potpourri are numerous, varied and significant, but they do not always blend well. "Riding into the Future on the Golden Carousel" depicts the new generation of native Californians: "Bright, uninhibited, involved. Their roots are firmly down; their vision of the land is mature." Which is why California leads the nation in murder, rape, drug abuse, vandalism, porno flicks and gang warfare. How bright, uninhibited and involved can you get?

One editor examines "the First 100 Days of President Jerry Brown," an alarming prospect; another reports on the rise ot the MCA, "the General Motors of the entertainment industry"; a third looks at the flourishing Valley News and Green Sheet, a San Fernando Valley newspaper that has struck the mother lode.

The Premere Issue (it cries for capitals) offered "In Search of the Perfect Pasta," "The Best Stocks To Buy Right Now," "Why You Can't Trust Hollywood Writers," and "Why California Doctors Charge More." There was something for everyone — a piece on Los Angeles little Little Theaters, a chewy item on gardening ("succulents are the sexiest plants"), a sketch on artist David Hockney, and a Joyce Haber-type gossip thing about skiier Spider Sabich being gunned down by somebody named Claudine Longet, Andy Williams' ex.

The Inconstant Reader would find in the first issue of New West an article on "How Reagan Destroyed the GOP in California," film reviews ("All the President's Men" is "a disappointment"), plus illustrated chit-chat about eye chic, Neil Simon, Mother Moon, knitting, the Organization Woman and The Saucier's Apprentice. The only thing the mag missed was Little League and the grunion run.

"You can't tell much from a first issue," says New West, diffidently digging its toe into the hot sand. "It is in many senses as unreliable as a first novel or a first date . . . but we expect, quite frankly, to be the best magazine put out in this state for this state." (It is published by the New York Magazine Company.)

New West stands (or falls) somewhere between a coastal Time magazine and the society-oriented, ad-heavy San Diego Magazine. It is notable for its pontificality and lack of humor. The billboards salaciously suggest, "Take advantage of us while we're young and innocent," but there lingers the question of who is taking advantage of whom? (Are we still young and innocent?)

New West cost 75 cents the copy. It comes out twice a month.

Once would be enough.

Dr. Lamb

Should one walk or jog?

DEAR DR. LAMB — In your column you referred to an article in The Journal of the American Medical Assn. that distance in a walking exercise was almost as effective as speed in developing the respiratory and cardiovascular system. I have been on the aerobics cycling program and have encountered some physical difficulties. I would like to know if I interpreted your remarks correctly.

DEAR READER — No, you did not. Walking a mile is just as effective as jogging a mile as far as the number of calories used. That's important to people using exercise for weight control. If you are interested in using calories to prevent or eliminate obesity it's better to walk four miles than it is to jog one.

Jogging, walking and running will cause you to travel a mile faster. You will have to spend that same amount of energy in a shorter period of time. To do this you must deliver more oxygen to the body in a shorter period of time. That requires the heart and lungs to work harder. This is how you get an effect in training the heart and lungs.

You will get some improvement in the heart and lungs function by walking but not nearly as much as if you are able to increase your level of exercise to the point that the heart rate is at least over 100 per minute for a sustained period of time during exertion. Many authorities think that the heart should work sufficiently to increase the heart rate to 60 per cent of its maximum level. For most middle-aged people that would mean a heart rate of around 120 beats per minute.

There are other types of exercise that you can use to work the heart and lungs. You don't need to jog.

Swimming is an excellent exercise and it gets the weight off your ankles and knees that cause some people difficulty during sustained exertion. Bicycling helps decrease the weight bearing problem upon knees and ankles. For more information about jogging send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 4-2, Jogging, Exertion, Sudden Death. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am on a salt restricted diet and should have no salt. It has come to my attention that health food stores are selling a sea salt. How does this differ from iodized salt, and would it be better or as beneficial as a salt substitute? My problems are hypertension and swelling from varicose veins in the lower legs and ankles. This is a very tasty salt, and would make eating more interesting I am sure.

DEAR READER — I'm not sure how you know it's so tasty since your doctor told you you're not supposed to have any salt.

The reason salt is restricted is because it contains sodium. Any sea salt preparation being sold at health food stores contains sodium just like ordinary table salt, and people with any medical problems that require them to restrict salt should not use such products.

While I am on the subject, you shouldn't use any of the half-salt products that are now available in the grocery stores. The only thing that you can really use as a salt substitute is a salt substitute, meaning one of the preparations that contains no sodium.

Opening lead— 10♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There are two easy ways to get yourself set at four hearts. The first and simpler method is to cash dummy's ace and king of trumps at tricks two and three. You can ruff one spade, but when you try to get back to dummy, West will get the lead, cash his queen of trumps and leave you one trick short.

The more complicated way is to cash just one trump and dummy's second-high spade. Then you ruff a spade. West will overruff, put his partner in by underleading his ace of clubs and overruff you on the next spade.

A little care will prevent either of these unfortunate things from happening to you. Just lead a club or trick two. The best defense at this point is for the enemy to lead a second club and force dummy. Now you cash one high trump and go after spades. If West overruffs, he can't put his partner in. If he discards, you lead a diamond toward dummy's king and are home with all the marbles.

If a girl proposed matrimony to a fellow during a Leap Year, he either had to marry her, or prove he already was engaged, or pay a fine of 100 pounds. That was the ruling set out by Queen Margaret of Scotland in 1288. Historians regard her decree as the origin of Leap Year.

Q. "Who invented the sewing machine?"

A. Which sewing machine? An Englishman named Thomas Saint invented a sewing machine in 1790. An Austrian named Josef Madersperger invented a sewing machine in 1814. A Frenchman named Barthelemy Thimmonier invented a sewing machine in 1829. An American named Walter Hunt invented a sewing machine in New York in 1833. An American named Elias Howe, Jr., invented a sewing machine in Cambridge, Mass., in 1846. And an American named Isaac Merritt Singer invented a sewing machine in Boston in 1850.

MASTER OF MOTIVATION — Hilliard Carter, 30, an Army veteran who lost his sight and both arms in a booby trap blast in Vietnam in 1966, operates tape recorder which has helped him work toward a master's degree from the Illinois Institute of Technology. His thesis is on motivation as applied to rehabilitation. Unable to use Braille in his studies, Carter substituted the tape recorder to record lectures and notes.

Political prankster says he'll pull no more tricks

ABOARD THE PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL (AP) — He says he has retired. But one wonders.

Dick Tuck, master political prankster who rigged Richard Nixon's fortune cookies and slipped a comely spy onto Barry Goldwater's campaign train, rode President Ford's whistlestop express Saturday as it rolled across Michigan.

He promised to behave.

"Welcome aboard," the President told him and shook his hand.

"Thank you, Mr. President. Thank you very much," Tuck replied, with a puckish grin.

Ford grinned back and said he was glad Tuck had come aboard formally instead of sneaking on.

"I've been doing this (riding campaign trains) for 50 years," Tuck told him, "and this is the best train I've been on — this week."

Ford smiled. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen cleared a path for passengers who had gathered around, and the President made his way down the aisle.

Dick Tuck was a campaign worker for several past Democratic presidential candidates. He is 52 now and he has a little paunch. There is some gray in his curly hair. But his light brown eyes still twinkle.

Over a cup of coffee — 20 cents on the "Presidential Express" — Tuck said he didn't really don a railroad cap and wave Richard Nixon's train out of Tulare, Calif., years ago when Nixon was seeking votes for the vice presidency.

Apocryphal. The train had pulled out in midspeech, but Tuck said he wasn't responsible.

Idly, he flipped the lapel of his black coat. Brass buttons. The words "Union Pacific" were stamped across each one. A conductor's coat.

"I get my old clothes from Averell Harriman."

The father of the former ambassador was a railroad magnate.

Tuck's eyes twinkled.

He recalled the shapely young lady he managed to sneak aboard Barry Goldwater's campaign train in 1964. She distributed a newspaper Tuck published called "The Whistlestop" which she slipped under every compartment door at night.

And he recalled the fortunes he slipped into some cookies Nixon distributed in Los Angeles' Chinatown during his 1962 campaign for the governorship of California.

They said: "Richard Nixon for Mayor of Whittier; Pat Brown for Governor."

Why wasn't he doing these things now? Was he discouraged by Watergate and its dirty tricks?

"No, I came out ahead on Watergate," Tuck allowed.

"What I did wasn't illegal. Secondly, it wasn't ever malicious. I've always tried to lighten things, to touch them with humor — and that's not always easy. And thirdly, I tried, you know, in most cases, to dramatize a serious or important issue. Finally, what I did wasn't surreptitious or anonymous. Some have said that I not only claimed credit, I demanded it."

It was a long, tough road to rehabilitation

CHICAGO (AP) — Hilliard Carter is winding up a thesis on motivation as applied to rehabilitation and will soon earn his master's degree, a degree he can neither see nor touch.

Carter, 30, a former Army man, lost his sight and forearms in a booby trap blast in Vietnam in 1966.

"It was a long and sometimes discouraging rehabilitation period in Walter Reed Hospital," he said. "Blind veterans would try to explain how it was. Veterans without hands would tell me how it was. But not once did I meet anybody blind and also handless.

"I finally made up my mind that I was useless physically, but I could develop brain power and could put it to work helping others."

When he receives his master's from the Illinois Institute of Technology, Carter said a job of counseling awaits him at a Veterans Administration Hospital.

He has spent nearly six years in college, getting a Bachelor of Arts degree in general studies at Chicago's Roosevelt University before starting on his master's at IIT, where his grade average is 3.2, a B-plus.

Unable to use Braille, Carter absorbed knowledge by sound, using tape casettes of text books and having friends read to him. In examinations, he replies to questions and solves problems through a "reader" who writes out his answers.

"The toughest thing was learning how to get around by myself," said Carter. "I have hooks for hands. It took me two years to learn to get the touch and feel of using a special cane. But I depend mostly on my feet. I feel my way with them. I don't wear shoes with leather soles. I get a better grip on the ground with rubber soles."

What kept Carter going?

"One day I just decided to have a meaningful life and I stuck with it," he said.

Townsfolk raise dragonflies to fight mosquitoes

WELLS, Maine (AP) — Shunning the use of pesticides, residents of this coastal resort town are raising dragonflies — some of them in backyard bathtubs — to battle the mosquitoes that plague the area each summer.

Brent Marriner, head of Wells' Chamber of Commerce, said Monday that citizens had raised $1,860 in individual contributions to buy 12,000 immature dragonflies from a Massachusetts biological supplyhouee.

Marriner, who is coordinating the experiment, said the dragonfly larvae, or nymphs, feed on mosquito larvae that breed in salt water estuaries and still ponds surrounding the town. When fully grown, the dragonflies will be able to eat their weight in mosquito larvae in just half an hour, he said.

Marriner said the idea of purchasing dragonflies was adopted at a town meeting earlier this year. Debate raged between those who urged the need to control the mosquitoes before the summer tourist season and those who opposed chemical spraying for environmental reasons.

The population of Wells, about 7,000 year-round, increases tenfold during the summer months.

Marriner said opponents of pesticides also cited the danger that mosquitoes would mutate and become resistant and the expense of spraying — estimated at more than $6,000.

He said the town was equally divided between those who claimed residents would "die of encephalitis" if something weren't done and those who argued that renewed spraying would "kill all the wildlife."

Then one resident recounted how she had learned while boating on a canal in France that mosquitoes there were kept under control by dragonflies. Marriner said some quick research showed that residents of nearby Ogunquit for the past several years had planted 200 dragonflies annually to keep mosquitoes under control.

Once the citizens agreed to try the experiment, they enlisted the Boy Scouts, who identified bodies of water from aerial maps and helped distribute the dragonfly nymphs around the town's 100 square miles. Many residents planted them in bathtubs in their backyards, Marriner said.

Marriner said he believes the town is the first in the nation to attempt such a project on a large scale, adding, "There's not a dime of government money, not even a grant."

He said an informal survey would be conducted at the end of the summer to determine the success of the experiment.

MA CARTER ON WHITE HOUSE LAWN? — Projecting into the future and the possible election of Jimmy Carter as president, photographer catches a glimpse of Mrs. Lillian Carter, mother of the Democratic candidate and matriarch of the Carter family, relaxing in her hammock in Plains, Ga., and suggests this is what one might see if she were to visit her son in the White House.

Gesture from former friends

Engraved invitation to U.S.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heather Miliard opened her morning mail as she sipped her tea in the London suburb of Bromley.

The brown paper parcel contained a silvery paper box, and inside that was an elaborately engraved scroll with a Bicentennial motif from the United States. It was an invitation to Miami.

"Oh no," exclaimed Mrs. Millard, who had returned to her native England with her husband and two daughters four years ago after having made Miami their home for 20 years.

She really meant "oh yes" to the invitation because her best friends had included two airplane tickets and an offer of three weeks worth of lodging, meals and transportation.

The unusual gesture to their British friends was the Bicentennial idea of Shirley Blum, Pat Gilson, Ruth Leshaw and Elaine Rosen, who missed the Millards and wanted to do something special for them on their 25th wedding anniversary and the nation's 200th birthday.

They went around getting a number of persons who had known the Millards to chip in for the cost of the tickets, lodging, meals and other niceties.

"It's been like a fairy tale," said Mrs. Millard, sitting in the couple's borrowed Miami Beach lodgings. "How long can you stay on cloud nine?"

The Millards left Miami in 1972 to return to the British countryside they loved, although they had become American citizens and their daughters were born here. Mrs. Millard's husband, Max, was the head of surgical pathology at Jackson Memorial Hospital.

The Millards' two daughters, who stayed behind in England, had trouble believing their parents' good luck.

"They said their friends will never do something like this for them — that it's something more to be expected of our generation," Millard said. "We both feel that we have two countries to love. I'm a bigamist. I love England and America."

Added Mrs. Millard, "I think England should become the 51st state."

Withdrawn Manson transferred for 90-day psychiatric study

VACAVILLE (AP) — Charles Manson was transferred to the California Medical Facility recently for a 90-day psychiatric study becaucse he was "becoming extremely withdrawn," a prison official said.

Manson, 41, is serving a life sentence after being convicted of masterminding the 1969 murders of actress Sharon Tate and six other persons.

A spokesman for the Vacaville medical prison, Thomas Charleston, said Manson had been regularly refusing to leave his cell at Folsom Prison.

Manson spent seven months at Vacaville in 1974 and was transferred after prison officials said they intercepted letters to two of his disciples, Lynette Fromme and Sandra Good, which talked about a future escape attempt.

Miss Fromme was convicted last year of attempting to assassinate President Ford, and Miss Good was found guilty recently of threatening the lives of business and government leaders.

Minimum wage hike, four-day week proposed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 50-cent minimum wage increase, rest facilities for men and women and a four-day work week provision highlight proposed revisions of State Industrial Welfare Commission regulations.

IWC Chairman Howard A. Carver said that the proposals cover household occupations and work standards for 14 industries and occupations in effect since 1968.

Carver said the new minimum wage would affect 1.6 million workers primarily in retail trade, eating and drinking establishments, hotels and motels, amusement and recreation and the apparel industry.

Also, new standard overtime provisions would require employers to pay premium wages after eight hours work in a single day and 40 hours in a single week. These would apply for the first time to agricultural workers, including field workers.

The proposals would allow a 40-hour, four-day week with overtime required for any additional days worked in the week. But 10-hour days must be consecutive and by mutual consent of employer and employe.

Public hearings on the proposals will be held in Fresno on June 7-8, Los Angeles June 9-11 and San Francisco June 15-17. Final regulations should be in force by Sept. 6.

The proposals would lift the minimum wage from $2 to $2.50 per hour, with a special rate of $2.15 an hour for "learners and minors," those under 18. The federal minimum wage, now $2.20 in some categories and $2.30 in others, will become a uniform $2.30 Jan. 1.

Employers would be required to provide resting facilities separate from toilet facilities, a provision previously only applied to women.

Men would be covered for the first time under provisions compelling employers to provide a rest period of 10 minutes for each four hours worked, a meal period of 30 minutes or more when an employe works more than five hours, seats at or adjacent to work stations, elevator or similar service for workers on the fourth floor above or below ground level, and all equipment and uniforms required for the job.

Rather than specifiying weights for lifting regulations, the commission proposed, "No employe shall be required to lift, push or carry any object which is beyond the individual employe's capability."

The proposals also disallow deductions from pay for cash shortages or breakage unless employe dishonesty or integrity is involved.

The IWC deleted a section of its 1968 work orders which permitted employers to apply workers' tips or gratuities toward the minimum wage. This was done after the legislature declared such earnings the sole property of employes.

Carter said the proposed regulations are based to a large extent on recommendations by labor and management representatives on wage boards.

Under those covering household employes, a live-in worker would have at least 12 consecutive hours free of duty each day and and the total number of work hours could not exceed 12 hours a day. Overtime would be time and a half.

Non live-in household employes would receive time and a half pay for all hours exceeding a 40-hour week or an eight-hour day.

In the agricultural orders, the commission proposes that workers get double pay for all hours worked in excess of 12 in one day.

The manufacturing order states, "If a meal period occurs on a shift beginning or ending at or between the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m., facilities shall be available for securing hot food or drink or for heating food or drink," and a sheltered place must be provided for eating.

The proposals also call for a $2.50 daily payment in addition to the minimum wage if the employe works a split shift in manufacturing.

Exempted from some or all of the provisions of the proposed orders are persons employed in administrative, executive or professional capacities; federal, state or local government; student nurses; outside salespersons; personal attendants and babysitters; professional actors and actresses and regularly indentured apprentices.

FDA continues cyclamate ban

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The government's refusal to lift its ban on the artifical sweetener cyclamate leaves the calorie-conscious consumer with few alternatives.

The only other artificial sweetener on the market, saccharin, also is under study as a potential health hazard and natural sugars such as those in corn syrup have just as many calories as the powdered, table variety.

The Food and Drug Administration banned cyclamates in 1969 after questions were raised about the possibility of a link between the synthetic sweetener and cancer. Studies since then have failed to prove or disprove the danger theory, but the FDA said last week that it did not want to take any chances and would not rescind its ban.

Cyclamates are about 30 times sweeter than sugar. Saccharin, in use for almost 100 years, is 300 times sweeter than sugar, but some people claim it leaves an unpleasant aftertaste.

A 1971 report linked saccharin to possible cancer in rats and a year later the FDA imposed limits on its use, designed to make sure no one consumed more than one gram a day. A committee organized by the National Research Council of the National Academy of Sciences reported earlier this year that a lengthy study failed to provide conclusive evidence of danger.

The FDA is awaiting further research and no final decision on saccharin is expected before next year. Meanwhile, the restrictions remain.

According to the U.S. Agriculture Department, Americans consumed about 5 million pounds of saccharin last year, down 10 per cent from 1974. That translates into 750,000 tons of sweetness.

On a per capita basis, U.S. saccharin consumption worked out to a sugar sweetness equivalent of seven pounds. In the same year, per capita sugar consumption was just about 90 pounds, down from 97 pounds in 1974.

High prices and calorie-counting encouraged Americans to search for alternatives to granulated sugar. Corn sweetener prices generally have declined recently and consumption is up — about 27 pounds per capita in 1975, compared to 18 pounds in 1974.

Nutrition experts at the Food and Drug Administration say table sugar has about 15 calories per level teaspoon, about 3½ grams. It is a mixture of two simple sugars, glucose and fructose.

Other sweeteners — honey, fruit sugars and corn syrup — have about the same number of calories. Natural or refined, they are all sugars.

The different sugars do have different characteristics, making some more suitable for manufacturing uses than others and affecting the way they are digested. For example, there are differences in the moisture content, in the amount needed to produce a certain level of sweetness and in the way the body breaks down the sugar.

Fructose, also known as levulose, is the sweetest. It is the kind of sugar found in apples. Theoretically, you could save calories by using fructose since it would take fewer teaspoons to provide the sweet taste you want. Fructose, however, generally is not sold in retail outlets. It is used mainly in manufacturing.

Corn syrup is basically glucose, also known as dextrose, according to the FDA nutritionists. This is the form in which your body uses sugar and therefore corn syrup sweeteners are absorbed more directly than some other varieties.

Honey is a mixture of fructose and glucose — just like table sugar. Only the proportions are different.

Another sweetener you may see listed on the labels of some products is sorbitol. Technically, sorbitol is not a sugar; it's a sugar alcohol. It has the same number of calories as sugar, provides what the nutritionists call a "cool" taste and is absorbed more slowly by the body than regular sugar.

Full-scale boom termed possible

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The nation's economic recovery from the recent recession could surge into a full-scale boom, a group of research economists predicts.

Reporting in the spring issue of the journal "Economic Outlook USA," the economists cited consistently rising real income, very strong auto sales and a firm rebound in consumer confidence as encouraging signs.

University of Chicago economist Victor Zarnowitz said it also was encouraging that business capital investment, inventories, bank loans and interest rates have remained "remarkably sluggish."

In the past, he explained, slow responses to economic upturn by these indicators have tended to signal long periods of expansion.

F. Thomas Juster of University of Michigan's Survey Research Center, which publishes the journal, said the consensus of economists now is that the real growth of the Gross National Product this year would be 7 per cent, with prices rising only 5 per cent. Earlier, increases in both prices and GNP had been forecast at 6 per cent.

Juster also said he expects the unemployment rate to drop below 7 per cent by year's end, but noted this would still leave the jobless rate at about the same level as the worst point of any previous postwar recession.

He said he expects increases in plant and equipment spending to help boost the economy in the second half of 1976 and into 1977.

In addition, Juster said, consumer confidence data "indicate that a full-fledged automobile boom is a very real possibility."

In time of Christ

Dead Sea scroll might throw new light on Holy Land life

JERUSALEM (AP) — Scholars are awaiting publication this year of what they feel may be one of the most important Dead Sea Scrolls ever found.

The so-called "Temple Scroll" is expected to throw new light on life in the Holy Land around Christ's time.

The scroll is being deciphered by an Israeli archeologist, Prof. Yigael Yadin, who has been associated with the scrolls since they first were discovered in 1947 and were proclaimed the greatest find in the annals of Biblical history.

Yadin purchased the "Temple Scroll" from an Arab merchant in Bethlehem in 1967. The merchant had previously bought the scroll from Bedouin tribesmen who found it in a cave. From his archeological sources Yadin learned the merchant had the scroll and as soon as Israeli forces moved into Bethlehem in the 1967 Middle East war, he went there to bargain and make the purchase.

Yadin has disclosed some section of its which illuminate in detail the Ten Commandments and the 603 Biblical orders on Jewish custom that are attached to them.

The scroll also carries exact specifications for the building of the great Jewish temple in Jerusalem.

The entire work will be published in English and Hebrew by the Hebrew University of Jerusalem and, in the words of one expert, will provide "dramatic new data" on the Essenes, the ascetic Jewish community that lived on the shores of the Dead Sea 20 miles east of Jerusalem and wrote the scrolls, which remained hidden for about 20 centuries.

The hiding places were chosen by the author, a monkish Jewish sect who fled the increasingly secular atmosphere of Jerusalem for the brooding silence and moon-like landscape of Qumran, on the Dead Sea.

Here they penned copies of the Jewish Torah, books of the prophets, commentaries on the Bible and works on Jewish customs and codes.

The Bible texts were the earliest known copies of the holy book, and in most cases were remarkably similar to the translations written centuries later and adopted by Judaism and Christianity.

Yadin's scroll also will add new demensions to the Book of Ezekiel and the story of the dry bones brought to life by God, says Prof Eric Myers of Duke University in North Carolina. And director of Jerusalem's W. F. Albright Institute of Archaeological Research.

Yadin is keeping the bulk of his work secret until publication, and no details are known of its content, other then the small sections Yadin has chosen to reveal in lectures.

The "Temple Scroll" is just one of 600 Dead Sea works found since the first scrolls were discovered by a Bedouin shepherd in a cave by the Dead Sea.

They range from the mammoth 19-foot-long "Temple Scroll" to tiny fragments whose context and meaning can be decoded only by painstaking deduction. Each fragment that does not appear to belong to a known work is listed as one of the 600 scrolls.

At least half the scrolls are still being deciphered amid an atmosphere of political animosity generated by Middle East hostilities.

Many of the scrolls were in the hands of the Jordanian government and were stored in museums in the Arab section of Jerusalem. They fell into Israeli control when the Arab sector was captured in 1967.

Scholars in East Jerusalem institutions, such as the French Ecole Biblique, reject the notion of Israeli jurisdiction. On the other hand, Magen Broshi, curator of the Israel Museum scrolls, speaks of all 600 items as being Isael's.

Publication of one volume of material deciphered by an international committee of scholars chosen under Jordanian auspices has been delayed for two years because the scholars refused to have the title of the Israeli government on the flyleaf.

"It's a shame that politics intruded," says one expert. "It slowed down the work." Broshi says the scholars "are in no hurry," and still have hundreds of items to decode.

Experts in Jerusalem, the United States, England and France continue to pore over fragments, using infrared cameras to bring out script that has faded from sight during nearly 2,000 years of burial in caves.

5 to 10 years for slaying

VAN NUYS (AP) — A former Marine who won a purple heart in Vietnam has been given a five-year-to-life sentence for the karate-type killing of a 20-year-old Pierce College coed last New Year's Eve.

Steven M. Allen, 26, of Panorama City pleaded guilty last month to second-degree murder and was sentenced Monday by Van Nuys Superior Court Judge Joseph DiGiuseppe.

Allen surrendered to Los Angeles police Jan. 2 and confessed to the lover's lane slaying of Laurel P. Jobe of Canoga Park.

Longest one-man dog sled trip

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — A Japanese adventurer went for days without food and long hours in total darkness, through broken ice and a confrontation with a polar bear to complete the longest one-man sled dog trip in history.

"It was just my dream," said 115-pound Naomi Uemura, 35, after an 18-month, 7,500-mile journey from Jakobshavn, Greenland, to Kotzebue, Alaska. He arrived on May 7.

Uemura's trip was sponsored partly by Mainichi Shimbun, a Tokyo newspaper which described him as the first man ever to have climbed the major peaks of five continents — Mt. Everest in Asia, Mt. Kilimanjaro in Africa, Mt. Aconcagua in South America, Mt. Blanc in Europe and Mt. McKinley in North America.

"After I arrived on top of mountain, I put my mind on some other mountain," he said here Friday. "If you climb this mountain, you want to climb more, bigger than this one, to make you satisfied. Now there are no more mountains I need to climb to satisfy me."

Uemura's latest adventure began in December 1974. After only a few days, he fell through ice weakened by ocean currents and lost his supplies and all but one dog, forcing him to return to his starting point and gather new equipment.

He arrived at Kotzebue with nine dogs, only one of them from his original team. He said 30 dogs died during the trek and he added to his team from villages along the way.

At Point Barrow, Uemura said he ran into a polar bear.

"I was taking tea when I heard dogs bark," he said. "I saw polar bear coming 100 feet from my place. I picked up my gun, but I didn't have bullets in my gun."

He loaded the gun and fired three shots, but the bear continued to pace back and forth near the dogs. The bear soon left but returned.

"The second time, my mind has come calm," Uemura said. "First time, very scared. I start to make movies of polar bear. Left hand had gun, right hand had films. Polar bear left and I escape from this place."

Uemura said he sometimes went three days without food, spent days in total darkness with only a compass to guide him, and often temperatures were so low the sled was unable to move across the ice. There were times he was able to travel only five miles a day.

NAOMI UEMURA

Assisted by the Tokyo newspaper and a television network, Uemura said he must now find a way to support himself while he plans his next adventure.

"I must find other jobs," he said.

'Last' crop duster pilot

OCEANSIDE (AP) — "I'm too old to be called Snoopy," objects Dusty Vrain, last of the fixed-wing crop duster pilots in San Diego County.

He's also flying too low, a few people complain, but farmers who hire him like it because that pinpoints the crop-protecting materials, fertilizer and seed.

"Yeah, the complaint I hear the most is from growers," says Vrain, "who are sore about me knocking down their sprinklers with my wheels."

As his 35-year-old biplane swoops alongside Interstate 5, motorists snap Vrain's picture. He's so low he can be seen in his tattered leather jacket, leather helmet and goggles.

Photographers he can do without.

"I've had 30 or 40 photographers in a field at a time shooting pictures as I go by. All I can do is shake my fist at them. They always think I'm waving hello.

"So I have to pull out of the field. It's against the law to spread this stuff with anybody down there."

Vrain, 57, has been dusting crops for 32 years. He says he works seven days a week and has never taken a vacation.

Once he and his wife planned a vacation in Samoa, but Vrain was unable to find a replacement pilot.

In his Navy-built N3, a primary trainer that went out of production in 1941, he can carry 2,800 pounds. Vrain vaults power lines and fences and skims the lush flower and vegetable fields of northern San Diego County at 85 miles an hour.

California has probably the strictest regulations in the United States to control crop dusting.

The houses and people are crowding in. There are "aerial applicators" flying and dropping their insect propellants over the dwindling fields of crops, but there is only one Dusty Vrain left.

Camp Fire unit sets luau Saturday night

Oda Ch Ka Discovery Club, a junior high Camp Fire group in Claremont, will stage an Hawaiian luau for family and friends at Claremont United Methodist Church on Saturday.

At the 6 p.m. luau Hawaiian food will be served. Guests will be entertained with Hawaiian music and dance during the evening. There will be displays of pictures, musical instruments and craft items on Hawaiian culture which the girls have been studying to earn a Torchbearer Rank in Hawaiian cultural Heritage.

The luau is the celebration of the completion of their Torchbearer rank and also in business. The rank has been earned in conjunction with a project begun in the fall of 174 to earn money for a trip to Hawaii later this summer. This is the youngest group in Camp Fire to take on a project of this size. So far, the girls have earned over $2,000, but they will continue with fund-raising projects throughout the summer in order to make the trip. A car wash and a booth at the Claremont July 4th carnival are planned.

Members of the unit are: Karen Cobb, Peggy Esser, Shannon Gilbert, Kathy Greer, Renee Latourneau, Nancy Lewis, Shelly MacDougal, Jody Mai, Mary Jane Merrill, Kathy O'Toole, Susie Rascon and Chrissy Woy. The group advisers are Jo Ann Gilbert and Judy Rascon.

Lemmings are furry little rodents related to the mouse. Lemmings are about 5 inches long, including their stubby tails. They live in the cold, northern parts of the world, and burrow into the ground to build their nests.

The best known lemmings are the lemmings that live in Scandinavia. Every so often, according to legend, these lemmings march to the sea and drown themselves.

But the lemmings don't plunge recklessly into the sea. The lemmings of Scandinavia live in the mountains, where they eat grasses and other plants. Every few years their number grows far beyond the supply of food.

Great numbers then begin to migrate from their crowded mountain homes in search of food in the valleys below. They pour down the mountain, eating as they go.

Finally they reach the sea and can go no farther. But the pressure of thousands behind them pushes many lemmings into the sea and they drown.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

P. C. symphony in final concert

The Pomona College Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of its new music director, Robert Henderson, will present its final concert of the season in Bridges Hall at 8:15 p.m. Friday.

The program will consist of the Sinfonia Concertante in E Flat by Mozart; Concerto Grosso No. 2 for string orchestra by Ernest Bloch, and Serenade No. 1 in D Major by Brahms. Various student soloists from the orchestra will be featured in the first two works.

Henderson has previously held conducting positions with the Young Musicians' Foundation Debut Orchestra, the Orange County Chamber Concerts, the USC Contemporary Music Festival and the Idyllwild and Alaska International Festivals.

In addition to his activities as a conductor, Henderson is a sought-after performer on the horn, and has been heard as principal horn in the Glendale Symphony, the Pasadena Symphony, the San Francisco Opera Company and the Los Angeles Philharmonic. He has recorded extensively for motion pictures, television and commercial recording companies.

Pomona's orchestra is the only orchestra in the Claremont Colleges and includes student membership from all of those colleges, as well as faculty, city residents and, occasionally, visiting artists.

Admission to the concert is free.

Dance concert planned

Some 40 to 50 dance students at Scripps College will present a concert on the Bowling Green at 4 p.m. Tuesday. Admission is free.

The informal program will provide an opportunity for students in Scripps dance classes to show what they have learned during the year. Performing to taped music, they will dance in a wide variety of styles.

Linda Levy, assistant dance professor, has choreographed a special number, "Halloween," for the 15 men and 15 women in her ballet partnering class. Some of the performers will wear football helmets.

GOP 17 to 13

In the 30 presidential elections held from 1852 to 1968, the Republican Party candidate won 17 times, the Democrat, 13 times.

FAMILY PORTRAIT — Monte Van Vleet, top left, and Ed McCormick; Nancy Oehlschlaeger, bottom left, and Beth Browning-Rogers make up the Brewster family in the Polyethylene production of "Arsenic and Old Lace." The group, made up largely of Cal Poly graduates, will present the comedy at John's House, 390 E. Kingsley St., Pomona, at 8 p.m. May 27-29 and June 3-5.

'Arsenic and Old Lace'

Poly grads plan comedy

A group of young valley residents, mostly Cal Poly graduates and mostly drama majors, has formed a new theatrical group called Polyethylene.

The company will present "Arsenic and Old Lace" at John's House, 390 E. Kingsley St., Pomona, at 8 p.m. May 27-29 and June 3-5. Tickets are $2.50. Reservations can be made by calling 622-5110.

John's House is an old, two-story building that has a 40-seat hall, once a chapel, built on the back. The house is the residence of John Rice, a Cal Poly graduate and member of the group.

Several of the members of Polyethylene have been active as performers and directors at Valley Community Theater and other drama groups.

Doug Kremer will direct "Arsenic." The cast is made up of Beth Rogers, Abby; Nancy Oehlschlaeger, Martha; Rice, Harper; Ed McCormick, Mortimer; Donna McCormick, Elaine; Ed Longwill, Jonathan; Monte Van Vleet, Teddy; Gregg L. Hill, Einstein; Doug Kremer, Brophy; Nick Hooyboer, Klein; Bruce Wilkinson, O'Hara and Gibbs; Dean Spencer, Witherspoon and Joe Boydell, Rooney.

Polyethylene plans to present "The Three Cuckolds," a commedia dell'arte complete with acrobats and jugglers, in Lincoln Park this summer.

Anniversary

February 1976 was the 66th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

Fuller exhibit slated

An exhibition of recent work by James Fuller, chairman of the Scripps College art department, will open at Gallery 8, Claremont, with a reception from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

The works are combinations of watercolor, etching and aquatint. The imagery is drawn largely from nature.

Fuller has taught at UC Berkeley, UC Davis and Cal State Los Angeles. He works in a wide variety of media and has won prizes in etching, lithography, wood sculpture, watercolor and oils.

The exhibit will continue through June 20. Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday.

Nureyev film at Garrison

"Don Quixote," a color film starring and co-directed by Russian-born ballet star Rudolf Nureyev, will be shown at Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 8 p.m. Thursday, at 2 and 8 p.m. Friday and at 2, 5 and 8 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets, $2.50 general, $1.50 for students, are on sale at the box office and can be reserved by calling 626-4523.

Although Nureyev and Sir Robert Helpmann have been associated in various ballet projects in the past, the film version of "Don Quixote" brought them into a close partnership for the first time as co-directors.

Nureyev has become an international star since his dramatic flight from the Kirov Ballet in 1961. As a dancer he has enlarged his repertoire to 50 roles by appearing with major ballet companies on three continents. As a choreographer he has mounted and partly choreographed 19 productions, one of which is "Don Quixote."

This ballet, patterned after the choreography by Marius Petipa, has been performed by the Australian Ballet, of which Sir Robert is co-artistic director, since 1970. When the decision was made to make a film version of it, Helpmann's distinguished career as a dancer, actor, director and choreographer made him a natural choice for the title role and co-director as well. For Nureyev, it was part of his ever expanding interest in all things theatrical to participate in the directing.

Producer John Hargreaves insured the project with freshness as completely new sets and costumes were designed. Geoffrey Unsworth, Academy Award winner for "Cabaret," was the director of photography. Nureyev and Helpmann shot 100,000 feet of film in their pursuit of perfection. The final picture was reduced to 9,500 feet.

"Don Quixote", also stars Lucette Aldous as Kitri opposite Nureyev's Basilio. She appears as Dulcinea in the dream sequence with Don Quixote. The International Arts Inc. and Walter Reade Organization production was shot in its entirety in Melbourne with the dancers of the Australian Ballet.

Citrus plans concert

Five Citrus College musical groups will combine in a spring concert in the Auditorium at 7:30 tonight. Admission is free.

Taking part will be the Citrus College Singers and Chamber Chorale, directed by Ben Bollinger; the Citrus College Chorale and Concert Choir, directed by Martin Green; and a new group, the five-girl Citrus College Wind Ensemble, directed by Anthony Desiderio.

"We want the public to hear what we have been doing all year," said Bollinger, director of vocal organizations at the college. "We will be performing festival material, sacred literature and secular, contemporary music."

First Decoys

A thousand years ago, Indians made the first decoys in order to attract birds to move within an arrow's range. They were made of bulrushes, woven and twisted into duck shapes. This Indian invention was quickly adopted by North America's first white hunters. In the Old World, hunters used tame birds to trap wild ones in a cage the Dutch called an "ende kooi" — what the Englishmen pronounced "decoy."

Fourth annual

Four arts fete set

Six local cultural groups will take part in the fourth annual Four Arts Festival on the plaza of the Pomona Civic Center from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

The theme will again be "Picnic in the Plaza." The public is invited to bring a picnic lunch, and spend the afternoon looking at art exhibits, watching artists at work, listening to band and chorus concerts and viewing ballet and drama productions. Leroy Hughes, former president of Valley Community Theater, will be master of ceremonies.

The Four Arts Festival was begun in 1973 with the encouragement of the Pomona Cultural Arts Commission for the purpose of giving valley residents an introduction to the various cultural programs available to them.

The festival is sponsored by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department and the participating groups — Pomona Community Chorus, Pomona Concert Band, Pomona Valley Art Association, Valley Concert Dance Theater, Valley Community Theater and Garey High School Studio Band.

The art association will set up an open-air gallery for the exhibition of works in a variety of media, and several artists and craftsmen will be at work. Valley Concert Dance Theater will present modern and classical ballet, and the Pomona Community Chorus will sing selections from "The Sound of Music" and other musicals.

VCT will stage excerpts from its comedy hit, "No, No, a Thousand Times No!" and the Pomona Concert Band will offer a program of marches and light classics. The Garey High School Studio Band will play jazz, rock and swing tunes.

Parking is free around the civic center.

STORE HOURS - MON.-SAT. 9:30 A.M.-5:30 P.M.

Try micro-cooking

Offer a cheery hello to late-morning guests with this tasty brunch featuring "Spicy Fruit Trio," "Eggs Buckingham," asparagus spears and plenty of hot coffee. Microwave cooking speeds preparation of the compote and entree.

Spicy Fruit Trio

1 8¾-ounce can unpeeled apricot halves
¼ cup water
4 whole cloves
4 inches stick cinnamon
2 oranges, peeled and sectioned
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries
Fresh mint sprigs

Drain apricot halves, reserving syrup; cut up apricots. In a 1-quart casserole combine reserved apricot syrup, water, whole cloves and stick cinnamon. Micro-cook, covered, for 3 minutes; mixture will boil. Stir in apricots; micro-cook, covered, 2 minutes more. Let stand, covered, at room temperature 20 to 30 minutes; or, chill, if desired.

Remove cloves and stick cinnamon and discard. Stir in orange sections and strawberries. Spoon fruit mixture into sherberts; garnish with mint sprigs and a whole sliced strawberry, if desired.

Eggs Buckingham

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
Dash pepper
1¼ cups milk
1 3-ounce package sliced smoked beef, snipped (1 cup)
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
4 eggs
1 tablespoon milk
Dash salt
Dash pepper
4 large rusks, buttered (each about 4 inches in diameter)

In a 2-cup glass measure micro-melt the 3 tablespoons butter or margarine 35 to 40 seconds. Blend in all-purpose flour and dash pepper. Thoroughly stir in the 1¼ cups milk. Micro-cook, uncovered, 1 minute; stir. Cook till thickened and bubbly, 2 to 3 minutes more, stirring sauce every 30 seconds to remove all lumps. Stir in snipped smoked beef; cover surface of sauce and set aside.

In a 9-inch glass pie plate micro-melt the 1 tablespoon butter or margarine 30 to 40 seconds. In a small bowl beat eggs with the 1 tablespoon milk, dash salt and dash pepper. Pour beaten egg mixture into pie plate with the melted butter. Micro-cook, covered, till eggs are slightly softer than desired for scrambled eggs, 2½ to 3 minutes, stirring through entire mixture every 30 seconds.

Arrange buttered rusks on serving plate. Divide and spoon egg mixture over rusks; cover with beef sauce. Micro-cook, covered, till heated through, 1 to 1¼ minutes for four servings. Serve immediately.

Exercise caution in the quest for fitness

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Regular daily exercise, intelligently planned, helps maintain your health. No argument about that. But your exercises are far from being enough to maintain your overall health. You must eat a sensible diet — not a crank diet or an inadequate one. You must be able to sleep well; be able to face many of the crisis problems of today; get some fun out of life: stop cigarette smoking, if possible and make certain you get a regular physical examination.

As valuable as exercise is to your general health, you also should make sure the other requirements of a good health program are followed, too. In that way, you may win 100 per cent achievement.

Man is a complex mechanism, a creature of many inter-related parts. But learn what parts need particular attention in your personal routine.

To guide its members, the American Medical Association has a new booket. It is called "Guide to Physicians in Prescribing Exercise Programs." Though written expressly for doctors, here are a few of its instructions which the layman can follow safely:

Do no more than 10 to 15 consecutive repetitions of an exercise affecting one particular muscle group.

Include exercises that strengthen the abdominal muscles, often the weakest muscles of the body.

Build better heart and lung action by long continued activity involving many repetitions performed at low intensity.

Don't warm up too fast. Take it slow at first.

Don't work out on hard floors without protection. Use floor mats. If they're not available, be careful of kneeling exercises and spine-rolling. Hip pain is a common complaint when mats are not used.

Do not use exercise gadgets or machines for warmups. Use calisthenics.

Avoid alcoholic beverages for two to three hours prior to the workout.

Keep in mind that the purpose of limbering, flexibility-type exercises is to change gradually the body functions from rest to an active exercise status.

On a workable weight control program, remember that exercise is only one part of total health care.

ROCKY ROAD CHEESECAKE

A cheesecake goes chocolate

Cheesecake has always been a favorite dessert, but now is the season for the gelatin-style cheesecake because it requires no baking.

This chocolate-swirled beauty has a marbelized effect that comes from melting chocolate pieces in cream and then blending lightly with the gelatin-cheese mixture. It's held enclosed in the chocolate cookie crumb crust.

The cheesecake itself is light in texture because only cottage cheese beaten until fluffy is used for the filling, rather than a combination of cottage and cream cheese. The gelatin, eggs, especially the beaten whites, along with the whipped cream provide the light, high and handsome filling.

Because of the ingredients used, this cheesecake gives a nutritious as well as delightful dessert. Cottage cheese has about three times the protein value of milk and also contains other important nutrients. There are, of course, other nutritious foods in the cheesecake such as milk itself, whipping cream and eggs.

Plan to serve Rocky Road Cheesecake when the rest of the meal is in light, salad-days style. It will provide much needed satiety value as well as a delicious dining experience.

ROCKY ROAD CHEESECAKE

Crust:
- 2 cups chocolate cookie wafer crumbs
- ½ cup confectioners' sugar
- ½ cup (1 stick) butter, melted

Filling:
- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
- ¾ cup granulated sugar
- ½ cup milk
- 4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
- 1 package (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2 cups cottage cheese
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ teaspoon almond extract
- 4 egg whites

For crust, combine crumbs and sugar; stir in butter. Press mixture firmly and evenly against the bottom and halfway up the sides of a 9-inch springform pan. Chill. For filling, sprinkle gelatin over water to soften. Combine flour and ¼ cup sugar. Stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Add small amount of hot mixture to egg yolks; return all to saucepan. Cook 1 additional minute. Add softened gelatin; stir until dissolved. Cool to lukewarm.

Beat cottage cheese 5 minutes on highest speed of mixer. Blend in vanilla, almond extract and gelatin mixture. Beat egg whites until foamy; continue beating and gradually add remaining ½ cup sugar. Beat until stiff peaks form. Fold beaten egg whites into gelatin mixture.

Whip remaining 2/3 cup cream in a chilled bowl with chilled beaters until stiff peaks form; fold into gelatin mixture. Spoon about 1/3 of filling into crust; drizzle thin stream of chocolate over filling; swirl with spoon in marble pattern. Repeat until filling and chocolate are used. Chill 6 hours or more. Yield: 1 cheesecake.

Golden Rain Trees abound

NEW HARMONY, Ind. (AP) — Common garden varieties of the Paniculata, maple and oak trees, can be seen throughout America, but this historic southwesern Indiana community is home to perhaps the most unusual Paniculata, the Koelreuteria Paniculata, or the "Golden Rain Tree."

Planted in the early 19th century by naturalist Thomas Say, the Golden Rain Trees produce clusters of small golden blossoms during the late spring. When shed a few weeks later, the blossoms create a golden shower. According to legend, it was the Chinese who gave the Golden Rain Tree its name.

Dieters can still have fun at cocktail parties

If you just love a party but are fighting a battle with your bulges, here's calorie news to prove that dieters can have more fun than anybody.

At the next cocktail party, try tall, long-lasting wine coolers with cocktail rye hors d'oeuvres. So refreshing and delicious non-dieters may be borrowing the idea.

The cocktail rye comes thin-sliced in approximately 2-½-inch squares, each containing less than 25 calories, six totaling 149.

Since the little squares are laced with caraway seeds, lightly salted and made with a balance of rye and spring wheat flours, they are tasty in themselves and need little by way of toppings.

But there are toppings which make attractive and tasty snacks without putting a dent in your diet. It's quick and easy to top the rye with a mix of lowfat cottage cheese, seasonings, and finely chopped fresh vegetables such as celery, onion, carrot, radish, tomato, watercress, green pepper, pimiento, mushroom, cabbage.

One tablespoon of lowfat cottage cheese contains 11-¼ calories and is quite ample for each snack.

It's calorie-safe to go whole hog on chopped raw vegetables as their count is so low as to be almost immeasurable: 7 in ¼ cup of cabbage; 5 in ¼ cup celery; 5 in ¼ bunch watercress; 3 in one large radish; 12 in ¼ large tomato.

For added zest, blend in a dash of onion or garlic powder, seasoned salt, ground pepper, celery or poppy seeds, hot pepper sauce — or a combination of several.

Here's a calorie countdown for each snack:

Cocktail Rye	Calories
Square	25
1 T. Lowfat Cottage Cheese	11-¼
1 T. Chopped Raw Vegetables and Seasonings (on average)	1-¾
TOTAL CALORIES	38

EASY WIN COOLER RECIPE

Place ice cubes in an 8-oz. glass. Add one sauce of a favorite dry red or white wine. Fill glass with plain carbonated soda or (for sweetness) a clear diet soft drink. Add lemon, lime or orange juice to taste. Garnish with lime or lemon slice or sprig of mint.

Most 12 to 12½ per cent dry red or white wines contain about 96 calories per ounce. There are five in one tablespoon of lemon juice.

RHUBARB COMPOTE

This method helps to keep the rhubarb pieces intact.

- 1 pound trimmed hothouse rhubarb
- ¾ cup light corn syrup
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ cup water

Cut rhubarb crosswise into ½-inch pieces — there should be about 3½ cups. Rinse. In a saucepan stir together the corn syrup, sugar and water; cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Boil 5 minutes or until sugar is dissolved. Add rhubarb to hot syrup; return to full rolling boil. Remove from heat. Cover tightly and let stand for 30 minutes. Serve warm or chilled. Makes about 2½ cups — 5 servings.

BAKED TOMATOES A LA BURL IVES

This recipe came to me via a friend of the well-known actor and folk-singer.

- 4 medium tomatoes, 1¼ to 1½ pounds
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 4 teaspoons olive oil
- Salt and pepper to taste
- ½ cup parsley sprigs (not packed down), minced

WATERMELON DRINKS

A new chicken dish offered

Chicken gilds menus all over the world; Chinese, Fijians, Balinese, French, Italians, Turks, even Greeks, pound it, stew it, fry and skewer it. The French embellish it with two sauces and layer it with broccoli to produce Chicken Divan. Why is such a humble fowl so revered in kitchens everywhere? Because sauces of all kinds seem to go well with its gentle, mild flavor. A Chef-like canned spaghetti sauce, a versatile cooking ingredient itself, offers limitless chicken and sauce dishes. We've gone for the exotic, combined the two and changed the nationality by adding fruit cocktail and coconut . . . what a combination, you say? Believe us . . . it's deluxe, delicious and delightful!

HAWAIIAN CHICKEN IN FRUITED SAUCE

- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2½ lb. chicken fryer, cut up
- 3 tablespoons oil
- 1 cup rice
- 1 cup water
- 1½ cups fruit cocktail
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (15 oz.) spaghetti sauce with meat coconut

Combine flour, salt and pepper; coat chicken with flour mixture. Brown in oil in a large skillet. Remove chicken; pour off fat. Add rice, water, fruit cocktail, salt and spaghetti sauce with meat. Arrange chicken on top of rice and sauce, basting chicken with sauce. Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Garnish with coconut. Serves 4 to 6.

HAWAIIAN CHICKEN

Little Leaguers might like your H.R. Hot Dogs

When your Little Leaguer comes home after a long day on the playing field, he's likely to be as hungry as a bear. Here's a suggestion to both nourish and delight him.

Home Run Hot Dogs have just about everything . . . frankfurters and mustard, of course, but also peanut butter, jelly, and baked beans. It's a very hearty dish that will provide solid nourishment in a form youngsters will like. Preparation is easy and if the game runs into extra innings, don't worry. Your meal will simmer away patiently until the last man is out.

Bring out Baseball Cakes for the perfect ending. They're really cupcakes easily decorated to look like baseballs. They're made with instant mashed potato flakes to keep them extra fresh and moist.

HOME RUN HOT DOGS

- 1 can (1-lb.) pork and beans
- ¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
- ¼ cup currant jelly
- 2 or 3 tablespoons peanut butter
- 1 pound frankfurters
- Frankfurter rolls

Combine beans, mustard, jelly, and peanut butter in large skillet. Add frankfurters. Cover and simmer 10 to 15 minutes, until hot. Serve frankfurters on rolls and top with bean mixture. 6 to 8 servings.

BASEBALL CAKES

- 1 cup mashed potato flakes
- 1 1/3 cups water
- 2 eggs
- 1 package (18½-oz.) yellow cake mix
- 1 can (16 ½-ox.) ready to spread vanilla frosting
- Red cinnamon candies or semi-sweet chocolate morsels

Combine potato flakes and water in large mixing bowl; let stand 2 to 3 minutes, until flakes absorb some of the liquid. Add eggs and cake mix. Beat at low speed until blended, then beat at medium speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Spoon into 24 well-greased or paper-lined muffin pan cups. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes, until cakes spring back when touched lightly. Cool and spread with frosting. Using candies, form 2 curved lines on each cupcake to resemble baseball stitching. Makes 24 cupcakes.

Eggplant sizes

When a recipe calls for a "small" eggplant, it's usually safe to use one that weighs about one pound; for a "medium" eggplant you can usually use one that weighs about 1½ pounds; for a "large" eggplant, you'll probably need one that weighs about 2 pounds.

Watermelon shopping tips

A slice of watermelon on a hot summer's day is a popular American treat. But did you know that in arid parts of Africa and the Near East where water is scarce or undrinkable, watermelons provide essential fluids and are a vital, staple food. The watermelon has earned its name well.

This summer, like those past and to come, Americans will enjoy many cool slices of this universally cherished, thirst-quenching fruit — especially on picnics.

The United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association offers some important tips for watermelon shoppers. Remember, even the most expert melon pickers have difficulty choosing a ripe watermelon, so a good idea is to buy at a market where cut melons are sold. Look for good red color inside. Black seeds indicate that the melon has reached maturity. If you're shopping for a whole watermelon, select one that's firm, symmetrical and fresh looking, with color characteristic of its variety. Check to see that the lower side is slightly yellowish where the melon contacted the soil as it grew. But if the underside is quite pale, the melon is probably immature.

Nobody needs instruction on how to slice and eat watermelon, but did you know that this fruit makes a wonderful ingredient for all sorts of summer dessert drinks? If you buy a whole watermelon, why not plan to eat half of it as usual, and make up delectable cool drinks with the other half?

Try a Watermelon Cooler. It combines the flavors of fresh fruits — watermelon and blueberries — with cool lemon sherbet and effervescent gingerale. When preparing this summer refresher, slip out all the seeds from a large section of the watermelon, then use a small melon scooper to make the watermelon balls. As gorgeous to look at as it is to drink, this cooler makes a wonderful party dessert.

You'll want the melon juice in the luscious Watermelon Frosted to be beautifully pink and clear. If you don't have a food mill to achieve this effect, then just press the seeded watermelon pulp into a strainer, working over a bowl, until all the juice is extracted. Topped with a delicious scoop of vanilla ice cream, this drink will win you raves and start a new tradition of watermelon eating in your household.

WATERMELON FROSTED

- ¼ large watermelon
- 1 pint vanilla ice cream

Cut watermelon into chunks and remove seeds. Put through a food mill to make about 3 cups of clear juice. Divide among 4 tall glasses. Scoop ½ cup ice cream into each glass.

Makes: 4 servings.

WATERMELON COOLER

- 2 cups watermelon balls
- 1 cup blueberries
- 1 pint lemon sherbet
- 1 quart gingerale, chilled

Divide watermelon balls and blueberries among 4 tall glasses. Add a ½-cup scoop of lemon sherbet to each glass. Fill glasses with gingerale.

Makes: 4 servings.

A mixed-up soup dish

MEXICAN DRY SOUP

Mexicans take their soups seriously, sometimes managing to eat two at the same meal. For the traditional late mid-day meal, the wet soup, like ours, with a broth base, is served first. Next comes the dry one which has spaghetti or macaroni as the principal ingredient. Essentially, dry soup is a spaghetti dish made by using a new (or old) Mexican twist which calls for browning the uncooked spaghetti first. To make this dish with greater ease and equal taste, we've used a complete packaged spaghetti dinner which contains the spaghetti, canned sauce and grated cheese, all necessary for the recipe. The one-pot dish is bound to become your family's favorite spaghetti meal . . . whoops excuse . . . dry soup!

MEXICAN DRY SOUP

3 chorizo or Italian sausages (skinned and chopped)
2 tablespoons oil
1 package (1 lb. 3-½ oz.) complete spaghetti dinner with meat sauce
1 green pepper, chopped
1 onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, chopped
2 tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
½ teaspoon oregano
salt pepper
sugar
1 can beef bouillon
green chilies (optional)

Saute sausage in oil; remove. Break spaghetti from complete spaghetti dinner; brown in oil. Remove and drain on absorbent paper. Combine pepper, onion, garlic and tomatoes in blender until a smooth puree. Heat oil again in skillet. Add puree and cook for 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Mix in oregano, slat, pepper, pinch of sugar, sauce from packaged dinner and bouillon. Add browned spaghetti and stir. Add sausage. Cook uncovered over a low heat, stirring occasionally until the spaghetti is tender and all liquid has been absorbed, or cook in preheated 350-degree oven for about 30 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese from packaged dinner and garnish with green chilies. Serves 4 to 6.

Taste it first

When you are making a cheddar cheese sauce or soup, taste it before you add salt — no matter what the recipe directs! You may find that the cheese you are using adds enough salt.

Eggplant and rice with ground beef

When the markets are full of lovely fresh vegetables, take advantage of their low price and use them generously in your meal planning. For instance, eggplant takes on a whole new style when cooked with ground beef and rice and sauced in a typically Greek manner . . . tomatoes, garlic, marjoram, and Rosemary. Rice, at a little more than three cents per half-cup serving, makes this an economical dish.

BEEF A LA GRECQUE

1 pound lean ground beef or lamb
1 cup chopped onions
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 cup beef broth
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon marjoram
½ teaspoon Rosemary
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 pound eggplant, peeled and diced (about 4 cups)
2 cups cooked rice
1 cup grated Mozzarella cheese

In a large skillet saute beef, onions, green pepper, and garlic until meat is no longer pink and vegetables are tender crisp. Stir frequently to crumble meat. Add tomato sauce, broth, seasonings, and eggplant. Cover and simmer 10 minutes or until eggplant is tender. Stir in rice; sprinkle top with cheese. Cover and continue cooking 10 minutes longer. Makes 6 servings.

Each serving provides: 286 calories, 2½ meat exchanges, 1 bread exchange.

Circus party refreshment ideas are shared

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press
Food Editor

In spring and summer small kids usually enjoy a party with a circus theme. Here are a few tried-and-true ideas, used by mothers over the years, for appropriate refreshment.

Lion Sandwiches. For these use a lion-shape cookie cutter — usually available at variety stores — to cut out bread shapes. A cutter that measures 4¼ inches from head to tail will just fit catty-corner across a slice of sandwich bread. The bread should be the non-crumbly kind, otherwise during the cutting a part of the mane or tail may come off. For the filling you can use jam or jelly and frost the top of the sandwich with peanut butter — an appropriate color!

Animal Fudge. For this candy, make up a batch of fudge from your favorite quick-cook recipe using semi-sweet chocolate pieces and marshmallows or the marshmallow cream that comes in jars. Turn the fudge into an 8-or 9-inch-square pan and cool it slightly. Mark off into about 2-inch squares and press an animal cracker over each square. Let the fudge cool completely and then cut through and remove. Because these pieces are large, they may be wrapped appropriately and used as take-home favors.

Clown Cake. Bake a chocolate cake in a 13 by 9 by 2-inch pan and cover it with white frosting. Using melted semi-sweet chocolate pieces, outline a clown shape on the frosting. For the face, you can use the chocolate marking for the eyes, a small cone cut out of green pepper for the nose and a strip of carrot for the mouth. Pieces of semi-sweet chocolate may be pressed down, polka-dot fashion, over the clown suit. It's fun to have the clown hold a string of balloons; mark the string with the melted chocolate and use slices of carrot and rounds cut out of green pepper for orange and green balloons.

Animal Cookies. Make up vanilla, chocolate or gingerbread cookie dough and roll out. Use cutters in cat and dog shapes to cut out. For do-it-yourself fun the party-goers will enjoy decorating their own cookies. Have custard cups holding white frosting, small spreaders and chocolate sprinkles at hand and the kids will take over.

Checking out air conditioners for the summer

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Consumers trying to get a head start on beating the summer heat may find themselves caught in a maze of confusing terms and conflicting claims when shopping for an air conditioner.

How big a unit should you buy? Which one uses the least energy? How much will it cost to operate?

Manufacturers generally suggest asking the dealer, who then checks a cooling guide. But consumers can do their own checking with the help of a free pamphlet from the National Bureau of Standards.

Air conditioning cooling ability is measured by BTUs — British Thermal Units. This rating indicates the amount of heat an air conditioner will remove from a room each hour. There is no firm rule telling you how many BTUs you will need for a particular area.

In addition to room size, you have to take into account the place where you live, the amount of sun, the number of people who use the room, the location of the area to be cooled in relation to other air-conditioned rooms and the type of room involved.

The Bureau of Standards booklet gives step-by-step directions on choosing an air conditioner. Charts explain how many BTUs to add or subtract for different factors. Here's how the system works:

Suppose you live in Dallas and want to cool a 12-by-15' kitchen-dining area. That's 180 square feet of floor space. A chart in the booklet shows that the unadjusted amount of cooling needed for this area is 4,700 BTUs an hour.

Next look at the "climate factor" for Dallas. It's 1.05, indicating that Dallas is warmer than average. Multiply the 4,700 by 1.05 to get 4,935 BTUs an hour.

For every foot of wall that adjoins another cooled room, you subtract 30 BTUs. Assume the 15-foot wall is next to the cooled room and subtract 450 BTUs, bringing the amount of cooling you will need down to 4,485 BTUs an hour.

How many people will use the room? If fewer than two will use it, subtract 600. More than two? Add 600 BTUs for every additional person. In this case, since the kitchen probably will be used by only one person during peak cooking periods, subtract the 600 BTUs. Finally, since the room is a kitchen, add 4,000 BTUs. The total amount of cooling you need is 7,885 BTUs an hour so you should look for models providing between 7,500 and 8,500 BTUs.

Once you have decided what size air conditioner you want, you should compare models to see which gives you the greatest amount of cooling for the least energy.

Most manufacturers of room air conditioners participate in a voluntary labeling program developed by the Bureau of Standards to provide a guide to energy efficiency. New labeling standards, required by law, are in the works, but will not be ready until next year.

The existing labels — the ones you can expect to see this summer — use a concept known as the Energy Efficiency Ratio or EER. It tells how much cooling you get for every watt of electricity you use. The EER is obtained by dividing the number of BTUs by the number of watts.

Suppose, for example, an air conditioner has a capacity of 6,000 BTUs and takes 820 watts to operate. The EER is 7.3. The higher the EER, the more efficient the model.

The energy guide label developed by the Bureau of Standards includes the EER for the model in question, as well as the number of BTUs and watts. It also includes the range of EERs for similar models.

The bureau's booklet on picking the best air conditioner and determining approximate operating costs is called, "Energy Efficiency in Room Air Conditioners." It is available, free of charge, by writing Consumer Product Information Center, Pueblo, Colo., 81009.

Note: many people are buying attic fans to cut down on heat that leaks into the living area. The Bureau of Standards said recently that such fans do not necessarily reduce the amount of energy needed to air condition a building. A bureau engineer explained that when the fans are used at the same time as an air conditioner, they can pull air from cooler living areas. The cool air is replaced by warm air from outside, increasing the load on the air conditioner.

He recyles refrigerators for a hobby

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Guy Hilton has beaten the economy with a business that has no overhead.

The 59-year-old handyman makes everything from fireplaces to doghouses with discarded refrigerators that cost him nothing.

"Friends call me the refrigerator man. When they buy a new one they call me to come get their old one. It would cost them $3 to have it hauled away to the dump," said Hilton, who started his business about a year ago.

Hilton has 40 stored in a barn on his farm and keeps several in his garage workshop in Normal.

I haven't sold too many things so far, but money right now is not the main thing. I just get a lot of enjoyment out of making something out of nothing," he said. "My wife can't understand my love for old refrigerators and kids me that I'll be buried in one. In fact, I get kidding calls now and then from people asking when I'm going to make one that flies or one that can cross the ocean."

Hilton, a retired real estate man, says there are some 30 items he makes from the discards.

"They are unbeatable as equipment lockers, well pump covers, garbage containers, garden carts, grain feeders, water tanks and fishing boats," he said.

"Old refrigerators were sturdily built at a time when manufacturers were not trying to save a buck here or there putting them together. I was making them into johnboats — those narrow, flat bottom, square-end boats — but they didn't sell. I even advertised them in the papers but when guys called up and I said they were made from refrigerators they always hung up. They must have had too much pride to fish out of a refrigerator."

Hilton built vents, slanted flues and a heating chamber inside one big hulk and covered the outside with a brick-like design. "It works great as a fireplace," he said.

"My newest and probably best project is putting a few refrigerators together on my farm for a hoghouse," he said. "My kids are in 4-H and we have eight hogs and 15 piglets. One sow and her pigs are doing fine in my new hoghouse, which is equipped with all the conveniences of the best hog home money can buy, including a heating lamp."

SANDWICH LOAF

Let the hostess enjoy the party

It's really entertaining — fun that is — when you can enjoy hostessing. With so many seasonal celebrations as graduations, showers and weddings, there is bound to be one that you will be cooking for soon.

Because being a relaxed hostess is the key to having a good time at your own party, plan for make-ahead foods as this sumptuous Sandwich Loaf. It is simply a one-pound loaf of bread which is sliced horizontally instead of vertically and filled with luscious sandwich spreads. Two of the layers in this loaf are especially handy to prepare with canned roast beef spread and canned chicken spread. The third layer is simply egg salad with a hint of curry.

Here are a few ideas which will make this recipe even easier on the cook-hostess. Plan to use a loaf or day-old bread because it is a bit firmer for slicing. You'll find that the fillings and cream cheese icing are best spread on the loaf if they're at room temperature Then be sure to cover and chill the prepared loaf for at least 4 to 8 hours. In fact, this Sandwich Loaf could be made the night before the party. When serving, a serrated edge knife will help to gently cut through the layers of filling and bread.

The only other hint is enjoy this party with your guests.

SANDWICH LOAF

1 (1 pound) loaf unsliced white bread
Softened butter or margarine
Chicken filling
Egg Salad filling
Roast Beef filling
2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
½ cup mayonnaise
1 cup toasted sliced almonds

Trim crusts from bread. Cut loaf horizontally into 4 equal slices. Butter the inner sides of the slices. Place one slice of bread on tray. Spread evenly with chicken filling. Top with second slice and spread evenly with egg salad filling. Top with third slice and spread evenly with roast beef filling. Top with unbuttered bread slice.

In a bowl, mix cream cheese and mayonnaise. Frost top and sides of loaf with cream cheese mixture. Cover sides with toasted almonds. Chill. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

CHICKEN FILLING: In a bowl, mix together 1 can (4¾ ounces) chunky chicken spread, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento stuffed olives, 2 tablespoons chopped almonds, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise and ¼ teaspoon lemon juice.

EGG SALAD FILLING: In a bowl, chop 2 hard-cooked eggs. Mix in ¼ cup mayonnaise and ¼ teaspoon curry powder.

ROAST BEEF FILLING: In bowl, mix 1 can (4¾ ounces) roast beef spread, 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish and 2 tablespoons chopped onion.

Mustard perks up two favorites

While we languish with mustard and hot dogs as our favorite snack, cooks all around the world are incorporating the magic of spicy brown mustard into their famous dishes. Myriads of sauces and dressings use it as that important perk-up ingredient. Here's a chance to spruce up your menu variety by spicing dishes with this versatile condiment. Pork Chops Hawaiian, a sweet and sour dish, and delicious and zesty Spicy Ham and Cheese Strata, offer an opportunity to vary your daily menu.

SPICY HAWAIIAN PORK CHOPS

4 medium pork chops
1 tablespoon cooking oil
1½ cups fruit cocktail
3 tablespoons spicy brown mustard
1 tablespoon brown sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
¼ cup orange juice

Brown pork chops in oil in a medium skillet. Combine remaining ingredients and pour over pork chops. Cover; simmer for 45 minutes or until tender. Serve over rice. Serves 4.

SPICY HAM AND CHEESE STRATA

1 can (4-½ oz.) deviled ham
2 teaspoons minced onion
8 slices whole wheat or protein bread, lightly toasted
3 tablespoons spicy brown mustard
8 slices American cheese
3 eggs
1½ cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon hot pepper sauce (optional)
1 package (10 oz.) broccoli florets, cooked and drained

Mix ham and onion. Spread ham mixture on toast. Arrange four slices on bottom of 8-inch baking dish. Spread spicy brown mustard on American cheese slices. Place four cheese slices, mustard side down, on ham spread toast. Place four remaining ham spread toast on cheese slices, then top with remaining cheese slices, mustard side down. Beat eggs lightly and combine with remaining ingredients. Pour over bread slices. Bake in a 325-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes until lightly browned. Allow to set for ten minutes before serving. Garnish with broccoli florets. Serves 4.

Dough cutter

A recipe will occasionally call for cutting out dough with a 4-inch round cutter. None in the house? You can save a 13-ounce can that salted nuts come in — it will be 4 inches wide. Cut off both ends of the can and use the end with the sharpest edge. For a 3-inch cutter, you can make do with a 4-ounce can of espresso coffee that is a fraction more than 3 inches across the top.

Turnaround by Japanese

WASHINGTON (AP) — There was not a single locomotive, steam engine, factory, telegraph or any ship larger than a 50-foot junk in Japan in 1850, according to National Geographic.

But within a century Japan was producing the world's largest ships and in World War II had the biggest, heaviest-armed battleship afloat.

Lettuce heads the list in popularity for salads

For popularity in fresh salads and year-round availability, lettuce heads the list. Raw or cooked, in slices or in chunks, lettuce is a low-calorie favorite that's flowing to market in abundance in May.

Like many of today's cultivated food plants, lettuce has its origins in the cultures that developed in the "cradle of civilization" in the eastern Mediterranean and Near East more than 2,500 years ago. Hippocrates had something good to say about its suppose medicinal properties, while Aristotle praised it. Chaucer could well have been describing a good salad chef when he wrote in a prologue," well loved he garlic, onions and lettuce."

Lettuce takes its name from the heavy milky juice that flows from the cut vein of a living plant. The Latin name Lactuca sativa L. contains the root "lac" meaning milk. The French and Spanish words for lettuce, "laitue" and "lechuga" are also very similar to the words for milk in these languages.

Lettuce comes in many different forms of leaf and shape, texture, size and flavor. There are five basic types — crisphead or iceberg, butterhead, romaine or cos, leaf and stem lettuce. Mix them together for a salad of surprising taste blends or use them separately where their characteristics are important. For Instance, the crisper varieties such as iceberg or romaine, because of their firm structure, can be used in chunks. Bibb or Big Boston, the two major butterhead types, have soft, light green leaves with a more delicate texture.

Whatever the type, lettuce is a perennial popularity winner in the grocery store, with annual sales of more than four billion pounds, second only to potatoes. Per capita consumption, according to the latest figures topped 21 pounds.

U.S. Department of Agriculture grade standards are used in the wholesale trade, although lettuce is not marked with the grade when sold at retail. U.S. No. 1 lettuce must be fresh, green, without damage and well-trimmed and the technical standards are much more detailed. Buyers, however, should look for commonly-recognized signs of freshness, in this highly perishable commodity, such as crispness, a good bright green color, and firmness in the crisphead varieties.

Lettuce when shipped from farm to market must also meet good delivery standards under the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, administered by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. PACA standards set forth the percentages of damage or decay allowable per lot, which are used in determining whether contract specifications have been met.

Lettuce should be used within a few days of purchase and should be stored in the refrigerator or in a cooler until used. To prepare lettuce for storage, rinse it thoroughly under running water, drain or spin it dry and wrap in a moist paper or cloth towel.

Lettuce has definite nutritional and dietary advantages. It's very low in calories — only about four calories per ounce. Its high cellulose content provides desirable roughage for digestion. Butterhead lettuce is high in iron, about two milligrams in 3½ ounces.

Celebrate the arrival of spring

By Gaynor Maddox

Spring has finally come. That means a green veil lies over the land and everyman feels a bit of hope in his heart. So let's celebrate with a spring feast.

Start off grandly with this menu which James Beard, food author and consultant, chose for his Easter dinner. Beard loves to eat and cook and appreciates fine foods. This is his gala springtime feast:

Cold poached salmon with Easter egg garnish, roast spring lamb, fresh asparagus, baked stuffed tomatoes, Bibb lettuce salad, Lady Baltimore cake, home-made strawberry ice cream, demitasse.

Another spring celebration dinner to enliven the spirit is:

Cream of watercress soup, cheese sticks, roast stuffed capon, new potatoes with parsley, tiny green peas, cold asparagus vinaigrette, lemon souffle, almond sauce, black coffee.

Fresh asparagus is surely one of the most welcome of spring-time foods. Serve it hot or cold, but be sure you treat it gently. Cook it slowly and never too long.

Lamb is a traditional spring dish. Now, however, turkey and ham have entered the springtime celebration.

Smoked Nova Scotia salmon, baked Virgina ham with fruit garnish, cornmeal spoon bread, baby carrots, fresh green beans with chopped walnuts, fresh strawberry rhubarb crisscross pie, cheese, coffee.

If you prefer veal be prepared to spend more for it proportionately than for any other meat today.

Prosciutto ham with fresh figs, roast young turkey, unstuffed, brown gravy, grapefruit conserve, whipped potato casserole with cheese topping, broiled cherry tomatoes, asparagus beans, celery hearts, stuffed olives, carrot sticks, scallions, fresh pineapple ice cream, macaroons.

There is a false bit of advice around that needs correcting. People say you must cut down on the amount of food you eat when spring and early summer arrive. Quite wrong! When the weather grows milder, people become more active, using more energy. Therefore, the body needs more fuel — milk, eggs, meat, fish, cheese, vegetables of many kinds, breads and cereals and fruits. Eat less heavy foods but you do need nutrients.

Sugar syrup

When a recipe calls for a 40 per cent sugar syrup, use 3 cups sugar and 4 cups water; the yield will be 5½ cups. For a 50 per cent syrup, use 4¾ cups sugar and 4 cups water to make 6½ cups. To make the syrup, stir together the sugar and water until sugar dissolves; then bring the mixture to a full rolling boil.

Springtime strawberries ready to be purchased

Strawberries — sweet, fragrant and juicy — make a good springtime buy as large quantities of the fresh fruit are now in the market. California production is expected to be 11 percent higher than last year's. Prices are dropping during this peak harvest season, according to U. S. Department of Agriculture marketing specialists.

For all their apparent delicacy, strawberries are surprisingly hardy as plants and they grow in a wide range of climates. One variety is cultivated by Indians in Ecuador on 10,000-foot mountain tops just south of the equator where the climate is cool and dry. Some varieties are grown in humid, subtropical areas in Japan and Florida. Others are grown in norther latitudes where very severe winter conditions prevail; in such climates, the plants are protected by snow or artificial mulching.

Strawberries, in the rose family, have been treasured through the ages for their sweetness and fresh flavor. The French "fraise" and Spanish "fresa" refer to the sweet odor. The English name comes from the way the plant's runners spread or are "strewn" over the ground.

Strawberries, pleasing to the eye and the palate, were also once thought to be "a surprising remedy for the jaundice of children" and were recommended for "bilious fevers." Today, strawberries are recognized as an excellent source of vitamin C, a cup providing almost twice the recommended dietary allowance. Fresh, uncooked strawberries rate a calorie count of 55 per cup (about 5½ ounces).

Although strawberries are grown in every state of the union, California, Oregon and Washington produce most of the berries and California most of the fresh berries. The average yield per acre in California comes out to about 20 tons, and it's all hand-picked, on 10,000 production acres. Many large growers do, however use planting machines that set the plants at the proper depth and distance apart.

Since 1920, research in federal and state agricultural experiment stations has helped produce strawberry varieties of better size, color, flavor, productiveness and disease resistance.

Strawberries are inspected and graded by growers and shippers according to U. S. Department of Agriculture standards of quality, based on standards of color, size, shape, maturity and number of defects. Shoppers should look for fruit with a full red color and a bright luster, firm flesh and the cap stem still attached. Medium or small berries usually taste better than the oversize ones. Watch out for mold, which can spread rapidly from one berry to another.

Here are some other strawberry-buying tips:

— Buy only what you need—never buy more than you can properly refrigerate and/or freeze.

— Watch out for deterioration — the strawberry is particularly susceptible to injury, and once punctured, crushed or exposed too long to heat, the quality and flavor decline rapidly.

— Appearance isn't everything — select your fruit for best eating quality rather than on outer appearance alone.

— Buy in season — quality is usually higher, and prices more reasonable, when you buy fruit in season.

Frozen strawberries may also be available whole, in halves or in slices. They are generally sweetened with sugar. The dry sugar mixed with the berries before they are frozen forms a syrup when it blends with the natural strawberry juices. Some whole strawberries are frozen with added sweetener.

Some frozen strawberries are individually quick-frozen in see-through bags, so that part of the package may be used and the rest kept frozen. Choose only packages that are frozen hard. Packages that are stained by the contents probably have defrosted sometime during marketing.

Fresh strawberries are very popular with cream and sugar, on breakfast cereals or after dinner, in homemade jams, in salads or in desserts. Here are a couple of suggestions for using one of Mother Natures finest creations:

UNCOOKED STRAWBERRY JAM

Try this simple, uncooked jam for a year-round topping. The jam can be stored in the refrigerator or freezer. It is a delicious ice cream or dessert sauce.

3 cups crushed strawberries (takes about 1½ quarts)
5 cups sugar
1 package powdered pectin
1 cup water

Sort and wash ripe berries; drain. Remove caps and stems and crush. Measure 3 cups of prepared berries into a large mixing bowl. Add sugar, mixing well, and let stand for 20 minutes stirring occasionally. Dissolve pectin in water; bring to a boil and boil 1 minute. Add pectin solution to berries and stir for 2 minutes. Pour into freezer containers or canning jar, leaving ½-inch head space. Cover containers and let stand for 24 hours or until jam has set, then refrigerate or freeze. Makes 7 half-pint jars.

Storage: Store jam in refrigerator for up to 3 weeks or up to a year in a freezer. Do not store at room temperature. Once a container is opened, the jam should be used within a few days.

FRESH STRAWBERRY MOLD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
¾ cup hot water
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
¼ cup fresh lemon juice
1 quart fresh strawberries
Whipped sour or sweet cream

Soften gelatin in cold water. Stir in hot water, salt, sugar and fresh lemon juice. Mix well and cool. Wash, cap, and put half strawberries through a sieve. Stir in a few drops of red food coloring if a deeper color is desired. Stir in remaining berries and gelatin mixture. Pour into a 5 cup mold. Chill until firm and ready to serve. Unmold on serving plate. Serve with whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

Cincinnati second baseman Joe Morgan avoids Dodger outfielder Bill Buckner after forcing him at second base during Dodgers' 5-0 win over the Reds Tuesday night in Los Angeles.

Rhoden tames Reds

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Remember Andy Messersmith?

If Rick Rhoden continues to pitch the way he did Tuesday night, Dodger fans will soon forget Messersmith, the 19-game winner who jumped the L.A. ship to become a rich man in Atlanta.

Messersmith will be returning to Dodger Stadium tonight in a Braves' uniform fresh from his first victory Monday after four losses in a disappointing start for his new team.

Rhoden, who has been moved into the starting rotation this season because of Messersmith's departure, is on top of the world after blanking the Cincinnati Reds, 5-0, on three hits Tuesday night to move the Dodgers back into first place in the National League West.

Not only did Rhoden hand the powerful Reds their first shutout since August 20 of last year in a regular season game — Luis Tiant of Boston did it in the World Series — he matched the Reds' hit total in playing a big part in helping his own cause.

So what does Rhoden want to talk about — his hitting or pitching?

"I always thought I could hit pretty well," said the righthander who just celebrated his 23rd birthday Sunday. "I hit two balls pretty well but the third one was just lucky."

Rhoden got the Dodgers on the scoreboard in the fifth inning when he belted a Jack Billingham pitch into right field for a double to score Steve Yeager, who walked and advanced to second on Steve Auerbach's sacrifice bunt.

Los Angeles broke it open in the sixth when Joe Ferguson belted a three-run homer after Steve Garvey doubled and Ron Cey walked to make it 4-0 and give Rhoden a cushion.

Rhoden opened the seventh with a single off of reliever Pedro Borbon. The hit led to the fifth run when Garvey singled to bring Bill Russell home. Rhoden added another hit in the ninth.

On the mound, Rhoden allowed four walks and struck out three. Cincinnatti's only hits were singles by Pete Rose in the first, George Foster in the fourth and Tony Perez in the sixth. The Big Red Machine only advanced a runner as far as third base in the first and third frames.

The result was a big win by the Dodgers over their arch rivals before a typical capacity crowd of 52,469.

"There's a different atmosphere when we play the Reds," Rhoden said. "I was just as excited Monday night and I didn't have anything to do with that game. I figure if you can pitch well against the Reds, you can pitch well against anyone."

Rhoden, 3-0 for the year, stayed with the fast ball in tight situations.

"Everytime I face this club I have had success with the fast ball," he said. "You can't walk guys and I walked too many tonight. I wanted to challenge them and I did."

Ferguson predicts a big future for Rhoden.

"Not too many people have seen him pitch," Fergy said, "but there is a guy who's going to be remembered."

Ferguson, the batting star with his fifth home run of the season, wanted to correct an impression he wished to be traded if he can't catch.

He has gone on record he would rather be behind the plate than stationed in right field.

"That's true," Ferguson explained, "but I would rather play right field for the Dodgers than catch for another team. I just want to play."

Even though he is hitting only .220, Fergy has provided the long ball during the Dodgers' hot streak which have put them into first place.

"We have a good attitude on this club," Fergy said. "It's not like last year when a lot of things happened. We learned a lot and grew up. I think it shows we're a more mature team this season."

DODGER DATA — Dodger skipper Walt Alston was ejected from the game in the seventh inning when he protested the failure of Borbon to come to a complete stop in his delivery with men on base. He was told to leave after throwing a towel in the direction of the field. "The next time I'll throw a brick," was Alston's comment.

Tommy John (1-2) will face Dick Ruthven (4-4) tonight with Doug Rau (4-2) scheduled against Carl Morton (0-4) Thursday. Messersmith will bypass the L.A. series.

Second baseman Davey Lopes will be out until Thursday or Friday with the muscle pull.

General admission sales for Friday's game against Houston are being sold in advance on a guaranteed seat basis. It's Cap Night with all fans receiving a free cap.

Catchers John Roseboro and Duke Sims have been added to the list of participants for the June 13 Oldtimers Game.

The game of June 13 has been moved from 1 to 2 p.m. and the August 21 contest will start at 8 p.m. rather than 7 p.m. because of the Hollywood Stars attraction.

Cal Poly hosts Regionals

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Cal Poly Pomona will open its bid for its first NCAA Division II title ever Thursday, as the Broncos are scheduled to meet the University of San Diego in the opener of the Western Regionals.

That game will follow Thursday's Regional opener between Chapman College and Cal State Northridge. The Chapman-CSUN contest will go on at 11 a.m., with the Poly game to follow one-half hour after the completion of the opener.

All Western Regional games will be played at the Broncos' Kellogg Field. Ticket prices for Thursday's and Friday's games will be $2 per person, while tickets for Saturday's championship finals will be priced at $2.50. There will be no discounts for students or children.

The Regionals this year promise to be a wild and wooly affair. The four clubs involved have all played each other earlier in regular-season action, with no clear-cut favorite emerging.

Poly and U. San Diego split their four games this year, the Toreros sweeping a doubleheader at San Diego and the Broncos returning the favor at home.

Poly stands at 4-2 this year against Northridge and 0-2 vs. Chapman. Northridge is 0-2 vs. USD and 2-0 vs. Chapman, while Chapman is 2-0 vs. USD. Poly is 33-26-1 on the year, USD is 26-14, Northridge is 31-22 and Chapman is 32-26.

"These are all good ballclubs," noted veteran Cal Poly skipper John Scolinos. "I would give Northridge the edge, however. They won the Western Regionals last year and I feel that is a big advantage."

NCAA WESTERN REGIONALS

Thursday's opening round
Chapman vs. Cal State Northridge, 11 a.m.
U. San Diego vs. Cal Poly Pomona, 3 p.m.

Friday's games
Thursday's opening round winners, 12:30 p.m.
Winner of Friday game No. 1 vs. loser of Friday game No. 2, 3:30 p.m.

Second game (if necessary), 3 p.m.

The Toreros carry a 2.50 team earned run average into the tourney, paced by lefthander Dan Flanagan's 13-2 mark and 1.85 ERA. Flanagan is expected to be the Toreros' starting hurler Thursday afternoon vs. the Broncos.

Other top USD hurlers are Tim Ronan (4-3, 1.62), Marty Bell (2-2, 1.63) and Jim Deaver (3-1, 3.60).

Second baseman Paul Mendes is the sparkplug of the team offensively and defensively. Mendes is sporting a robust .386 batting average, and had made only five errors in 40 games. He has had 42 runs scored and 22 RBI in 40 outings, and will bat in the leadoff spot Thursday.

MacPherson will carry a 11-7 record and a 2.43 ERA into the outing. He outdueled USD's Flanagan in a 4-2 Bronco win at Poly earlier this year.

Scolinos will have John Kistner (3-0, 5.14) and Tim Rosenstein (5-4, 5.18) ready to go in relief should MacPherson falter. He had hoped to have the services of righthander Rick Schwenn for the playoffs, but Schwenn's sore right elbow has not come around.

"Schwenn still can't cut loose. I would list him as doubtful for this series," Scolinos noted. "Gary Zakem also has had a sore arm, but I think he will be able to pitch.

"The key to our pitching in the playoffs will be Rosenstein. He hasn't pitched much lately but he's going to have to step in now as we have to win three games in three days to win this thing."

While Scolinos is concerned over his pitching rotation for the playoffs, he has plenty of confidence in his offensive attack. And no wonder, as the Broncs sport a .306 team average (highest of the four tourney teams) and have six starters over the .300 mark.

Centerfielder Dennis Sherow leads the way with his .383 average. The speedy Sherow has cracked 90 hits in 60 games, including 10 homers, nine triples and eight doubles. He has also stolen 19 bases, scored 59 runs and driven in 47.

Fellow outfielder Ken Hellyer is carrying a .376 average into the playoffs, and leads the team with 50 RBIs. Designated hitter Kevin Jenkins is at .343, third baseman Clay Harris at .335, shortstop Scott Pyle at .347 and first baseman John Turfiff at .316

A long ride for Leos' foe

Lewis-Clark State, District I winners with a 42-8 mark, will play La Verne (25-19) Thursday night at 7 p.m. at Glover Field in Anaheim.

Linfield College of McMinnville, Ore. will fly down Thursday. The Wildcats compiled a 22-12 record enroute to the District II title.

The playoff schedule calls for a single game (La Verne vs. Lewis-Clark State) Thursday (7 p.m.) and two games Friday. Linfield will play LCS at 5 p.m. and La Verne at 8 p.m.

Winner of Friday's 8 p.m. game will play the team with one loss at 5 p.m. Saturday. If a second game is needed it will be played immediately following the first contest.

Poise the key in Celts' win

"Our poise was the difference. We had chances to get blown out several times," Heinsohn reflected of his team's 94-87 triumph over the Cleveland Cavaliers that propelled Boston into the National Basketball Association finals for the 14th time.

The Phoenix Suns are the next target Sunday of the Celtics in an ironic twist. Charlie Scott, a member of the Suns last season, was Tuesday's hero.

Scott, who teamed with fellow guard Jo Jo White for 49 points, picked off Campy Russell's pass intended for Austin Carr. He drove unmolested for the deciding stuff shot and an 88-85 lead with 1½ minutes left.

For Scott, often maligned for his defensive weaknesses, it was a dream come true. "I've wanted all my life to make the NBA championship. It's my biggest thrill. It's fantastic," he said after scoring 20 points.

"When we came into the locker room," said Heinsohn, "the guys were happier for Scott than for themselves. Charlie has taken more jazz for so long, it's indecent. He's done everything I asked him."

"Carr came out to get the ball. I was overplaying him and denying him the pass. He was killing us down the stretch. I knew that made it three points, they couldn't catch up with the basket. It put the pressure on them."

Carr, brilliant in reserve with 26 Cleveland points, sat chagrined in front of his locker, muttering, "He came off a pick. I didn't see him. He got between me and the ball. That was it."

Heinsohn looked up and said, "We're just beer drinkers. The champagne will come after we win the big one."

Bill Fitch, the NBA Coach of the Year supposedly headed for the Los Angeles Lakers, bristled over questions about it. "I'm not much for talking about those things. I have no discussion of my future. That's been true in my six years here," he snapped.

Chaffey wins, to host Arcadia

Chaffey High's baseball team, 9-8 winner over Santa Monica Tuesday afternoon, also won a coinflip this morning and as a result will be the home team Friday against Arcadia, 3-0 winner over Buena.

The quarterfinal game will be played on Chaffey's diamond Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Johnson loves beating Angels

CHICAGO (AP) — Bart Johnson hadn't felt anything like it in a long time, almost two years in fact, and he was enjoying the feeling.

"There were some people around here who wanted to run me out of town," said Johnson after he went the distance to shut down the California Angels on just three hits and no runs Tuesday night as the Chicago White Sox cruised to a 5-0 victory. "I just try not to pay any attention to it . . . I've been through it before."

It was Johnson's first complete game and first shutout since September 1974, and though he may have been able to ignore his critics, he admitted afterward that he badly wanted to win it the way he did.

"I was tired from about the sixth inning on, so I was just trying to throw strikes," said Johnson, now 2-4. "I was thinking shutout about then, and I was pressing. It's been so long."

But not long enough for Angels Manager Dick Williams.

Jim Spencer led off with a single and Brian Downing slammed a hard line drive to right field that popped out of the glove of Bobby Bonds for an error. Bucky Dent then collected the first of his two RBIs in the game on a single to center that scored Spencer.

After Jack Brohamer struck out, Bill Stein walked to load the bases for Kelly's blast off loser Nolan Ryan, 3-4, who also went all the way, giving up just six hits and striking out nine.

"I naturally looked for a fastball off him (Ryan)," Kelly said afterward. "If he gets a breaking ball over, I just give it to him. He's too quick. I hit it pretty good and their outfielders for some reason were playing bretty shallow. I don't know why; I guess they just didn't think we'd hit Nolan."

The Sox struck for their other run in the third when Jorge Orta led off with a single to right and stole second. After Downing grounded out, Dent picked up his second RBI on a ground-rule double that landed deep in center field and bounced into the stands.

Despite Johnson's performance, which snapped a personal four-game losing streak, White Sox Manager Paul Richards wasn't completely satisfied.

"He's getting closer to what we want, but he's still not quite there," Richards said of Johnson. "...I just think that with a little more of an idea of what he's trying to do and a little more motion he's going to be even better than he was tonight. I guess you might say I'm pretty hard to satisfy."

El Toro ousts Mustangs

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

EL TORO — Host El Toro High rallied from a 4-1 deficit to oust Walnut from the CIF 2A playoffs Tuesday by a 6-5 count.

The exciting contest saw the Chargers score the winning run in the last of the sixth on a walk, a stolen base, a ground out and Jim Nelson's sacrifice fly. That tally came off Mustang hurler Butch Long.

Kevin Urquhart opened the last of the sixth by reaching safely for the fourth straight time in the contest, this time on a walk. Urquhart had singled twice and walked once earlier in the game.

The Charger shortstop promptly stole second, and moved to third as Sal Grijalva grounded out second to first. Nelson then cashed in Urquhart with a fly to Dave Olivas in deep left.

El Toro hurler Rich Binder turned in his second straight complete-game five-hitter in playoff action. Binder beat Gahr 2-1 in the Chargers' 2A opener last Friday.

Binder had three strikeouts and two walks Tuesday against the Mustangs, who had three of their five hits in the third inning. In that frame, Toni Rossi worked Binder for a one-out walk. Ed Kimura followed with a single, moving Rossi to third. Jim Ziegler singled to left to score Rossi, knotting the score at 1-1.

Bob Cordova then whacked a Binder delivery on a line into right-field, and the ball took a kangaroo hop over Charger rightfielder Craig LaBahn. By the time LaBahn had chased the ball down, both Kimura and Ziegler had scored and Cordova wound up at third with a triple.

That advantage looked safe with the Mustangs' ace Long on the hill, but El Toro's Jeff Strand cut it to 4-2 with a home run to left-center in the last of the third.

Long weathered the fourth without any damage being done to the Walnut lead, but the Chargers took a 5-4 edge in the last of the fifth.

A single by Nelson and a double by Stand put runners at second and third. and Binder helped his own cause by lining a one-bagger to left to tie the score. Binder took second on the throw to the plate, and from there scored as shortstop Rick Hunt committed a two-base throwing error on Jeff Tolbert's grounder.

The Mustangs tied it with one swing in the top of the sixth, as Walsh hammered a long homer to left leading off the inning. However, Binder settled down and retired the final six Mustangs in order after Walsh's blast to nail down the win.

The loss finished the Mustangs for the season. The locals posted a 16-8 season mark. El Toro is now 14-10-1 on the year, but the Chargers have won seven of their last eight. They will meet Mira Costa in a 2A quarterfinal clash on Friday, with the site of that contest still to be determined.

Alex Karras' wife sues for divorce

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Alex Karras, a former Detroit Lions lineman who provides an insider's view with deadpan humor on ABC's Monday Night Football, has been sued for divorce.

Filing the suit Tuesday in Oakland County Circuit Court was Ivalyn Karras, who has been married to Karras for 18 years.

The suit said the two have been separated since last July.

WINS ON SECOND TRY

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Much is expected from pro golf rookie Bob Gilder. His January victory in the Phoenix Open marked his second PGA tournament. The previous week, the 25-year-old Gilder missed the cut playing his first tour event at Tucson.

The Arizona State graduate is from Corvallis, Ore. He won the 1974 New Zealand Open as a pro but graduated from the PGA 1975 qualifying school only last fall.

Poly hosts Regionals

Other Bronco starters include catcher Jim Pryor (.297), second baseman Alex Torres (.292) and outfielder Ray Pekarcik (.268).

In Thursday's 11 a.m. opener, Chapman is expected to send righthander Steve Hansen (6-5, 2.06) against Northridge's Dick Adams (9-5, 3.88).

Chapman carries an impressive .305 team batting average into the tourney, coupled with a 3.10 team ERA. Northridge has hit .291 as a team so far this year but has a team ERA of a rather high 4.12.

Top hitters for the Panthers include shortstop Tim Flannery (.389), third baseman Gordon Blakley (.324) and outfielder Jack Hudson (.325). The Panthers also have the best running game of the four tourney teams. They have swiped 147 bases in 58 games, including Jullus Bowe's incredible 61 steals in 66 attempts. Jerry Divine has added 48 swipes in 49 attempts, as Chapman coach Bob Pomeroy can be expected to send his troups whenever possible.

Relief ace Scott Temple leads the Chapman staff with a 1.29 ERA to go with his 6-1 record. Geoff Irvin is the top winner on the team with a 7-5 mark and a 3.47 ERA.

The Panthers also have a Damien High product on their roster, in the person of sophomore shortstop Gerard Piccioni.

Northridge players Mark Bumstead and Steve Monka will be involved in a "homecoming" of their own, as they both are products of Mt. San Antonio JC.

The leading Matador hitter is second baseman Bob Slater at .345, followed by outfielder Jeff Gilbert's .335 mark. Bumstead is hitting .328 on the year and leads the team with 50 RBIs.

The Northridge pitching has been cuffed around a bit at times this year, with Steve Wold leading the team with a 2.33 ERA and a 6-1 record. Next is Mike Holt with a 8-3 mark and a 3.33 ERA, and Adams at 9-5 and 3.88. But after those three, the Matadors could be hurting for hurlers. Number three and four starters, Kurt Jenkins (2-8) and Don Gardner (3-2) sport ERAs well over the five runs per game mark.

Rams sign four, including punter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League signed four free-agent football players Tuesday, including a punter who was second in the World Football League at the time it folded last season.

Alvin White, from Oregon State where he played quarterback, averaged 41.5 yards per punt with the Southern California Sun in the WFL last season prior to the league's demise.

White, who stands 6-foot-3 and weighs 220, originally was drafted by the Rams in the 15th round last year as a quarterback but was cut from the squad. He then signed with the Sun.

Prior to going to Oregon State, he had played quarterback at Newport Harbor High and Orange Coast Junior College in Southern California.

The Rams did sign a quarterback—Jerry Dyer of Southern Utah, who hails originally from Santa Ana, Calif., where he attended high school and junior college. He holds the Santa Ana College record for completions in a single season with 224. At Southern Utah, he was the leading passer in the NAIA.

The other signees are Greg Reed, a defensive back and kick return from Pierce Junior College in Southern California, and Fred Henry, a running back from New Mexico.

Reed, 6-3 and 185, played with the Orange County Rhinos semipro team and intercepted six passes last season. Henry, 5-11 and 185, was a 17th round draft choice of the Rams in 1973 but was cut. He hasn't played football since then. At New Mexico, he set a Western Athletic Conference rushing record with 2,935 yards in his career.

That mark bettered the WAC career record set at 2,917 by Lawrence McCutcheon of Colorado State who now is the Rams' starting fullback.

"A couple walks and a couple mistakes on routine plays really hurt us today," noted Walnut coach Terry Murphy. "It's tough to lose a game after you had a 4-1 lead; I thought we had things going our way but El Toro never gave up. They're a good team, they hit the ball much better than I thought they would.

"Butch Long didn't look nearly as sharp as he did last Friday against Temple City, he just didn't get enough rest."

Long was summoned in relief of starter Cordova with the sacks full and two outs in the second, and got Nelson to ground out to end the inning. However, over the next four innings Long could fan but two Chargers as he didn't have the usual zip on his fastball. He also walked two, the crucial free pass being to Urquhart leading off the sixth.

Kimura collected two of Walnut's five hits, while Strand was a perfect three-for-three for El Toro. Urquhart and Nelson had two hits apiece.

An interesting note to Tuesday's game was that both head coaches, Walnut's Murphy and El Toro's Tim Reins, are products of Cal Poly Pomona, where they played under John Scolinos.

Quotes

"If the ABA is to continue, I think it must expand. I don't think we can go with just six teams." — Jim Eakins, president of the American Basketball Association's players association, on the prospects of his league—which contracted from 10 to six clubs this season—surviving if there is no merger with the NBA.

Chaffey comes back to win

By SEAN SULLIVAN
PB Correspondent

Down by an eight-run deficit, the Chaffey High Tigers bangedout nine hits, good for as many runs, in the fifth and sixth innings to upset second-ranked Santa Monica Tuesday afternoon 9-8 at Ernie Payne Field on the Tiger campus.

The host Tigers were shut-out in the initial four innings by Viking ace Tim Leary. The senior righthander had previously pitched two no-hitters this season, including one in the opening round win over Notre Dame High last Friday.

But the Viking hurler seemed to lose in the fifth what had enabled him to grant only three hits and one walk in the previous four frames. The Tigers pounded-out four straight hits, including a single that hugged the leftfield line by second baseman Rick Fellhauer (three-for-four including two doubles) to score Chaffey's second and third tallies.

The initial Tiger run came on centerfielder Dan Crowe's bunt single enabling Randy Johnston to score.

After Fellhauer scored on a sacrifice fly thoughts of a Chaffey victory were still minimal however as the visitors had already accumulated eight runs off Tiger pitching.

The margin was increased to 3-0 in the third when catcher Tony Diaz (three-for-three in the contest including a triple) single and scored on an error by Fellhauer and leftfielder Stan Younger scored on a single by first baseman Garry Humpston.

Santa Monica (19-7 overall, 9-6 Bay League record) doubled the deficit in their half of the fifth with three hits and a pair of walks. Montaneri and Leary each picked up two RBI with their hits.

After its four-run fifth and stopping the Vikings in the sixth Chaffey scored five runs with two outs in its half of the sixth. Four hits, including Fellhauer's second double and a triple by Anthony Munoz enabled the Tigers, who defeated Foothill in the opening round of the CIF-4-A playoffs, to advance to round three and face Arcadia, a 3-0 winner over Buena. The site for the Friday tilt will be determined within the next couple days.

'Hens go to nationals

Coach Pat Mulcahy will take two members of his Pomona-Pitzer track team to Arkadelphia, Ark. this week to compete in the NAIA National Track Finals and then will journey to Chicago where he will be joined by four more of this athletes for the NCAA Division III Nationals.

Going with Mulcahy to Arkadelphia for the NAIA competition are sprinter-hurdler Steve Smith and javelin thrower Bob Orell. Joining them in Chicago will be hurdler Dan Orr, distance runner John Armstrong, jumper Kent Namikas and runner Bill Taylor.

The NAIA Nationals in Arkadelphia are scheduled for May 20, 21, and 22. The NCAA Division Three Finals in Chicago are May 26-29.

Orr, a sophomore who did not run track as a freshman because of an ankle injury, started the season with a time of 54.1 seconds in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. After running two meets, he pulled a hamstring and missed the remainder of the conference season including the league meet. But he placed second in the District III meet (52.9) and then ran a school record 52.6 Saturday at UC Irvine. That time ranks second nationally in the NCAA Division III.

Smith, a senior, has run 9.7 in the 100, 21.5 in the 220 and 14.0 in the 120 high hurdles. Malcahy hopes Smith will be among the top four at the NAIA finals and the winner at the NCAA.

Armstrong, a junior who graduated from Bonita High in La Verne, has won both the mile and three mile the last two years in the conference meet. Mulcahy feels Armstrong is capable of finishing in the top five in Chicago.

Namikas, only a freshman, has gone 23-3 in the long jump, 49-11 in the triple jump and 6-4 in the high jump. Mulcahy says he is probably the best jumper in Sagehen history.

Taylor, a junior who ran the quarter-mile (48.4) last year, ran the 880 in 1:53.5 in the conference meet this year. He suffered a stress fracture last October and could not run for three months.

Orell, a senior, has won the javelin throw in the league meet the last three years. He won the district meet for the first time this year with a district record 231-11. Mulcahy feels he will surpass 240 feet in both the NAIA and NCAA events.

Mulcahy took five of the six to Irvine for open competition last Saturday and had mixed results.

"The hurdlers, Smith and Orr, were excellent," he grimaced. "But everybody else should have stayed home."

Orr set a new school record in the 400 intermediate hurdles (52.6). Smith was clocked at 14 flat in the 120 high hurdles. Orell did not compete at Irvine because of a heavy load of school work.

"At the NAIA Nationals, I'd like to see Orell in the top two or three, and Smith place," said Mulcahy. "In the NCAA Division Three event, I think we can produce some national champions and finish in the top five as a team."

NBC bids for Games

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company bid $11.1 million Tuesday for television rights to the 1980 Winter Olympic Games at Lake Placid, N.Y.

In a wire to Madame Monique Berlioux, executive director of the International Olympic Committee, NBC stressed that was ready to pay $1.1 million more than the $10 million reportedly bid by the American Broadcasting Company.

ABC and Lake Placid organizers already have reached a temporary agreement, subject to approval by the IOC. NBC as well as the Columbia Broadcasting System have protested the agreement, contending they were not given a fair chance in the bidding.

The wire to Madame Berlioux, signed by NBC's President, Robert Howard, said NBC was prepared to pre-pay a minimum of $2 million to Lake Placid for working capital and to match ABC's proposal for providing a world broadcast feed

Girls track prelims set

ARCADIA — The CIF regional girls track and field prelims will be held at Arcadia High Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m. Representatives of both the San Antonio League and the Hacienda League will compete in Arcadia, while another regional meet will go on concurrently at Redondo High.

The regional finals will be contested Saturday at the same sites. Running events will begin at 2 p.m. for the prelims and 1:30 p.m. for the finals.

The shot put will be contested to completion Thursday at 2 p.m. while the high jump and pole vault will go at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Top nine finishers in each running event at Thursday's prelims will advance to Saturday's final round. In the finals, the top four runners at each regional and the fastest fifth-place finisher between the two regionals will advance to the Masters' meet, which will serve as the girls championship finals.

Six athletes from each regional final of a field event will also advance to the championship finals.

Claremont High's Staci Johnson qualified for the regional prelims in four events (100, 440 and both relay events) but will compete only in the 100 and the relays. Upland's Gosswiller will compete only in the 100 and the relays. Upland's Kari Gosswiller will be entered in both the high jump, in which she has cleared 5 feet, 8 inches, and the long jump.

'Pack netters fall

Webb advances

Webb School advanced to the quarter-finals of the CIF 2-A tennis playoffs Tuesday afternoon by beating Walnut but Claremont dropped out of the 3-A race with a loss at San Clemente.

The Golden Gauls won an extremely close match from the Mustangs, 14½ to 13¾ while the Wolfpack fell by a 16-12 score.

Webb's Bobby Stratton was down, 0-4, in the final set of the afternoon, but came back to tie at 7-7, giving the Gauls the narrow win. Mark Novelo led Webb by winning all four of his sets.

Claremont and San Clemente were tied at 12 before San Clemente won the last four singles matches.

Nine of the 'Pack's points came in doubles play, where Olan Isarra and Henry Welch scored four points and Jeff Arce and Yaron Stempo added three.

The loss was the first of the year for Claremont, which finished with a 23-1 record.

Bob Pulford is selected

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Pulford, coach of the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League, was named Tuesday to head the U.S. hockey team which will compete in the Canadian Invitational Tournament Sept. 2-17.

Pulford's squad will oppose teams from Canada, Sweden, the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, and Finland in the tournament.

La Verne Legion ready to play

La Verne Post 330, with its roster set, is prepared to open its American Legion season on Friday night with a game vs. Upland Post 73. That contest will be played at Upland Memorial Park and will start at 7 p.m.

Post 330, runnerups in the Legion state tourney last year, has the bulk of 1975's team returning.

Bonita High players on the squad are Bill Bumstead, Scott Johnson, Ron Pickenpaugh, Bruce Hines, Bob Vidaure, Beto Bernal, Dave Drury, Ralph Ortega, Steve Benoit, Stan Pence and Mark Gillette. All but Pence and Gillette played for Post 330 last year.

Four San Dimas High players, Curt Burkhart, Steve Campbell, Dennis Wetzel and Greg Sayegh, are also on the squad, as is Damien High product Robert Alexander and Webb product Paul Richards.

Wall Pitts, who played for Post 330 last year and spent this spring at the U. of Oklahoma, is also back for the 1976 season.

La Verne will be coached by Dick Salomon. The Post 330 manager is Earl Bumstead.

Post 30 downs Chino Post 299

Pomona Post 30 improved its American Legion mark to 2-0 Tuesday with a 7-3 win over host Chino Post 299.

Chino jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning as Hank Bouwman doubled in one run and scored on an error, but the Gems quickly wiped that lead out and went on to score the win.

Bouwman's double was the lone Chino hit, as Post 30 pitchers Joe Jones and Mike Cosgrove combined to fan 14 men.

Mike Keegan slugged two doubles for Pomona, while Dale Coleman and Joey Chapa chipped in with triples.

Post 30 is now 2-0 on the season, as they beat Claremont Post 78 4-1 on Sunday. Randy Babineau and Dean Fritchle combined for the hurling honors in that game.

The Gems will be back in action tonight in a game vs. the San Dimas Thoroughbred team. Game time in that one is set for 5:30 p.m. at the Bonita High diamond.

Bunt fails, homer works

By Associated Press

When you hit one, that's a pleasant surprise. When you give one up...well, that's a shock.

Bill Robinson surprised not only himself but just about everyone else in the ballpark Tuesday night when he blasted a three-run homer in the ninth to help the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I'd tried bunting and that didn't work," said the Pirate outfielder.

St. Louis relief ace Al Hrabosky forced Robinson to swing away after getting two strikes on him.

"Hrabosky is a power pitcher; he throws a lot of fastballs," said Robinson. "It seems that as hard as he was throwing, that was as hard as I was swinging and trying to hit it. When I had two strikes on me, I just said, 'Well, if I strike out I'll still be happy.' (But) home runs always come when you don't expect them. I didn't think the ball was going to go out."

In the other National League games, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-0; the Atlanta Braves stopped the Houston Astros 3-2 and the San Diego Padres trimmed the San Francisco Giants 7-6 in 11 innings. Two games were rained out—Philadelphia at New York and Chicago at Montreal.

Robinson hammered a 2-2 pitch following a walk to Richie Hebner and a single by Al Oliver. Hrabosky, 0-3, struck out Willie Stargell and Richie Zisk before Robinson connected for his third home run, which went high over the left field wall. Robinson also had a game-winning homer Monday night to help Pittsburgh beat the Cardinals.

"The guy's strong," St. Louis Manager Ed Schoendienst said of Robinson. "He hits the ball out front. He hit it in the right part of the ballpark. If it had been twice as far off the line (360 feet) it would have been in the park."

Braves 3, Astros 2

Padres 7, Giants 6

Dave Winfield hit a one-out double and scored on Fred Kendall's force-out grounder in the 11th inning, lifting San Diego over San Francisco. Winfield doubled with one out off loser Randy Moffitt, 2-2, and, after Doug Rader was walked intentionally, Kendall grounded to Speier. His throw to second forced Rader but the relay to first was late and Winfield, running all the way, beat Willie Montanez' throw home. Butch Metzger, 4-0, got the victory in relief.

Yanks win in 16 innings

By Associated Press

Billy Martin said the big play came in the 10th inning. Frank Robinson said there shouldn't even have been a 10th inning.

The New York Yankees, trailing 6-1 after eight innings, erupted for five runs in the ninth, then came up with five more in the 16th to beat the Cleveland Indians 11-6 Tuesday night in the longest American League game so far this season.

Sandy Alomar and Thurman Munson had two-run singles for the Yanks in the ninth and Lou Piniella finally snapped the tie with a two-run single in the 16th. But the big play, according to Martin, the Yankees' manager, came in the 10th when with two runners on base New York third baseman Graig Nettles dove to his right to knock down a line shot off the bat of George Hendrick and turn it into a forceout.

"Nettles made one sensational play," said Martin. "That shows what kind of a player he is. He hasn't been swinging the bat, but he still comes up with plays like that on the field."

"We shouldn't even have been in the 10th inning," he said when asked about the play by Nettles. "We should have been in the ninth and then in the clubhouse."

Sparky Lyle, 3-1, pitched six scoreless innings of relief to get the victory in the four-hour, 28-minute marathon.

Red Sox 5, Tigers 3

Rick Miller, getting a chance to play regularly because of Fred Lynn's shoulder injury, drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth inning to lift Boston over Detroit.

"I want to play," Miller said. "I want to be a starter somewhere, I don't care where. I want to play regularly; if not in Boston, then somewhere else. I'm 28 and can't wait. If I get to be 30 years old, who is going to want me?"

"The way he's playing, there's no way you can take him out of the lineup," said Boston Manager Darrell Johnson. "We'll find a way to get both Miller and Lynn in there."

The Tigers had rallied for three runs in the bottom of the eighth—their first runs in 31 innings—to tie the game. Rick Burleson hit a three-run homer in the fifth for Boston, which has won six of its last seven games.

Royals 3, Rangers 1

Amos Otis hit his seventh home run of the season to tie Cleveland's George Hendrick for the American League lead and Al Fitzmorris scattered seven hits to raise his record to 5-0 for the Royals, who moved into first place in the Western Division, 10 percentage points ahead of the Rangers.

"It's funny," said Fitzmorris. "When I got out there I threw a few pitches and I knew I was going to throw strikes. I knew I had good stuff."

Twins 4, A's 3

LOS ANGELES — World Featherweight champion Alexis Arguello has launched training drills at the Main Street Gym in downtown Los Angeles for his upcoming title bout at the Forum.

The 23-year-old native of Managua, Nicaragua will risk his 126 pound World Boxing Association crown against Mexican champion Salvador Torres.

Torres is due in Los Angeles June 5th.

TWO STARS NOW IN NL

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National League office points out that the league's batters may have added trouble next season. Southpaw Mickey Lolich has been added to the Mets and right hander Doc Medich will be with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Lolich won 12 games and completed 19 for the Detroit Tigers last season. Medich won 16 games and completed 15 for the New York Yankees. Both were obtained in deals at the winter meetings in Florida.

THE SEEDINGS HELD UP in the end results of this year's Claremont Tennis Club singles championships, though one unseeded veteran player must have given a young defending champ his first gray hairs.

Rick Roper, the defending men's titlist, retained his crown and No. 1 women's seed Andria Fletcher breezed to the distaff title in finals matches Sunday.

Roper finished up the tournament with a 6-2, 6-4 win over second-seeded Bob Garner, but it was his semi-finals struggle with Stan Clark that nearly dethroned him. The unseeded Clark had two match points while serving at 5-4 in the second set, lost both of them, then saw the top-seeded Chaffey College star go on to win the match, 2-6, 7-6, 7-5. Garner, meanwhile, made the finals by ousting third-seeded Chuck Anderson, 6-3, 7-5, fighting off two set points in the second.

Fletcher, a La Verne College assistant professor of government as well as a teaching tennis pro, had a romp all the way. She sailed by third-seeded Judy Ross in the semis, 6-2, 6-0, then defeated No. 2 ranked Doris Clark, 6-2, 6-2, in the finals. Mrs. Clark had gotten by semis opponent Karen Lucke, rated No. 4, 6-4, 6-3.

In the club's B tournament, Jim Rees took the men's championship, a 6-2, 6-4 finals winner over Wade Mayo. Rees eliminated Jeff Gorman in the semis and Mayo nipped Jay Shorr. Margie Sullivan was the B women's victor, 6-4, 6-4, over Jo Ann Shernoff, and Sandra VanderDussen defeated Kay Stephenson in the C women's finale.

THE BOY SCOUTS live by the motto "Be Prepared," which to tennis players should mean something like "Get Racquet Back." At any rate, the scouts on May 31 will offer players a chance to practice their own version of the hallowed phrase by participating in the Sunny Skies Classic at the Claremont Tennis Club.

Some 60 to 70 players are expected to enter the Memorial Day all-doubles program, a fund-raiser for the scouts' Old Baldy Council. Round robin play will be scheduled in men's, women's and mixed doubles within A, B and C levels. The action on court will continue from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., with Theta Cable TV taping some of the matches for showing at a later hour. When the competition ends, dinner at the club also is provided under the $18-per-team entry fee. Trophies will be awarded to champions in each category.

Tournament director Scott Rushing said the entry deadline is May 28 and players can get into the tournament simply by mailing their entry and check to Old Baldy Council, 120 W. San Jose Ave., Claremont, 91711. They can make inquiries by calling Rushing at 626-3551.

A BIG CONQUEST Sunday has left the San Jose Hills Racquet Club's Team 1 in solitude atop the Foothill League standings. The team defeated Arcadia, 8-3, in a battle of unbeaten rivals at the Mt. San Antonio College courts, the visitors tumbling out of a first-place deadlock with the local team.

The San Jose Hills singles line-up accounted for a winning margin by itself, Craig Orr, Dave and Rob Stahl and Jack Hamm delivered in the men's division and Helen Wang and Lee Hollander swept the women's action. The home team's doubles winners were Orr and Lou De La Vega and Jeannine Neuer and Bob Wang.

In another league match Sunday, the Via Verde Country Club team bested the San Jose Hills Team 2, 7-4, at San Dimas High. That one evened out each team's season's record at 2-2.

Via Verde had singles winners in Arnold Weisman, Tom Li, Gary Cox, Karin Weisman and Mary Ann Humphrey and doubles winners in the duos of Mark Mitchell-Dave Moore and Dave Humphrey-Vince Scott. For San Jose Hills, Art Felix and John Grdjan had singles victories and the mixed doubles teams of George and Nancy Conger and George and Mary Delle Welton picked up both points in that division.

Via Verde's opponent next Sunday will be Arcadia while Team 2 of San Jose Hills will be at Santa Fe Springs.

AT FIRST GLANCE, the season seemed to have ended for Claremont-Mudd, the area's top collegiate tennis team. After ascending to the co-championship of the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, the Stags could do no better than a third-place finish in the recent National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District 3 tournament at Redlands. There was some consolation when district coaches paid particular tribute to Stags' mentor Hank Krieger by naming him Coach of the Year but the team's tournament finish wasn't high enough to gain a berth in the NAIA nationals at Kansas City next month.

Well, Krieger's crew is indeed alive and well today in Jackson, Miss. Claremont-Mudd is one of 22 teams invited from across the country to compete in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division II tournament, continuing through Sunday. It's the first time this division for smaller NCAA members has ever conducted a national tennis tournament.

John Blomberg, Chris Romney, Rich Dorman and Steve Mihaly made the trip from Claremont, the Stags being one of only 10 teams allotted the maximum four players for the event. California is represented by only one other team — Cal State Stanislaus — and the remainder of the field has a ripe intersectional flavor. Among the stronger contenders are Kalamazoo College in Michigan, Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania and Washington and Lee in Virginia.

* * *

THE NAIA DISTRICT tournament did bring some laurels to local teams, including the coaches' salute to Krieger. Pomona College player Fred Bendheim earned a first team all-district medal in singles for advancing to the semi-finals before losing to the eventual winner, Ben Taylor of Occidental. Claremont-Mudd's Dorman won second team honors in singles and the Stags' twosomes of Dorman-Steve Mihaly and Blomberg-Romney were second team doubles.

Taylor goes to the NAIA nationals, as does the Cal State Dominguez Hills team as winner of the team title. Whether invitations will go out to others in the district is uncertain.

Ilie Nastase became one of the contenders by beating Bjorn Borg in a five-setter last Sunday. Arthur Ashe and Ken Rosewall vie for the other finals spot today . . . The Los Angeles Strings vs. the Golden Gaters will by on Channel 9 Saturday at 11. The Strings will be on the tube Saturday nights for the rest of their season through August . . . The World Invitational Tennis Classic, taped series on Channel 7, will pit Evonne Goolagong against Virgina Wade Sunday 2:30 p.m.

Dallas signs UCR star

DALLAS — The Dallas Cowboys have announced the signing of two draft choices, wide receiver Butch Johnson of UC Riverside and linebacker Michael Hegman of Tennessee State.

Johnson is a 6-1, 175-pounder who was the Cowboys' third pick in the third round of last month's college draft. Playing in only eight games last season, he caught 67 passes for 1,027 yards and eight touchdowns.

In three seasons at UC Riverside, Butch had 139 receptions for 2,106 yards and 17 touchdowns. "He holds onto the football even when a bulldozer hits him," said Cowboys scout Red Rickey.

UCLA coach stunned

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA baseball Coach Gary Adams says he's stunned by the NCAA baseball committee's decision to deny his league champions a berth in the NCAA playoffs.

"I never thought something like this would happen," Adams said. "It never enterered my mind."

The Bruins won the California Intercollegiate Baseball Association title Saturday, ending a six-year USC dynasty.

But the NCAA does not automatically grant a playoff berth to the winner of conferences with fewer than six teams. The CIBA has five.

Despite the Bruins' title, the NCAA committee said Monday that UCLA's record — 35-25 — was not good enough to earn one of the playoff spots.

Washington State, 35-12, and Northern Colorado, 24-7, were chosen instead to fill two open berths in the District 8 playoffs.

Lou Spry, NCAA comptroller and a committee member, said of the exclusion of UCLA, "Anyone who loses 24 games can't have a good team. The determination was that UCLA's record just wasn't good enough."

Two at-large berths have yet to be filled, but Spry said UCLA was out of the running.

The District 8 playoffs are set May 27-29 in Pullman, Wash., with Fullerton State and Pepperdine the entries from Southern California.

Fisk featured

NEW YORK (AP) — Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox is featured on the 1976 American League Red Book cover. The catcher is shown hitting his 12th inning home run which won the sixth game of the 1976 World Series over Cincinnati. However, the Reds won the series by taking the seventh game.

Sports briefs

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — A businessman planned to announce today completion of efforts to move the Spirits of St. Louis of the American Basketball Association to Salt Lake City, it was reported.

Earl D. Walters, former president of the U.S. Ski Association, was quoted in The Salt Lake Tribune today as saying the deal called for current Spirits owners, Ozzie and Daniel Silna, and club President Harry Weltman, a part owner, to retain 70 per cent ownership, while Salt Lake City investors will own 30 per cent.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Ricky Green, University of Michigan guard, has removed his name from the National Basketball Association's hardship draft list and will play out his senior year.

Green made his decision Monday night and notified the NBA by mail.

The 6-foot-2-inch Green was Michigan's leading offensive player last season when the Wolverines posted a 25-7 record and were runners-up in the NCAA tournament.

"There are good fans at Michigan and I don't want to let them down," Green said.

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Eastern Michigan football Coach George Mans has resigned in a surprise move after serving for two seasons.

The 35-year-old Mans made his decision known Tuesday in a letter to Athletic Director Albert E. Smith.

Mans served as an assistant at Michigan Tech and the University of Michigan before he went to Eastern Michigan two years ago as head coach. No successor was announced.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Right-handed pitcher Rob Dressler is being called up to the San Francisco Giants from the Phoenix farm team, a team spokesman announced Tuesday.

PINEHURST, N.C. — Robert "Boots" Widener of Medina, Ohio, upset Jay Haas of Wake Forest University 1-up in the second round of the North and South Amateur Tourament.

HAMBURG, West Germany — Top-seeded Manuel Orantes of Spain beat Mike Cahill of the U.S. 6-0, 6-4 in a second-round match in the $100,000 International German Tennis Tournament.

MONTREAL (AP) — The Montreal Alouetes of the Canadian Football League have all but concluded their offseason recruiting with the announcement Tuesday that they have signed former Washington Redskins cornerback Larry Willis.

Willis, 26, played junior football in Phoenix, Ariz., and went on to the University of Texas at El Paso. He then signed with the Redskins as a free agent in 1973.

After being cut by the Redskins, he played successively with two World Football League teams, the Florida Blazers and San Antonio.

Quotes

"Why do we have to explain? Running has got to be fun. I try to win, but it's not the end of the world if I don't. I like the fellowship, something that's hard to explain. As I said, why should I have to justify running?" — Jack Foster, New Zealand's 44-year-old marathon champion.

"I look at the 24th and 25th players on rosters and I think the next expansion teams will be the worst in history. — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson.

Golf tourney gets new home

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Tournament Players Championship—which PGA Commissioner Deane Beman seeks to elevate to major tournament status—has found a permanent home in Jacksonville, Fla.

"It's no secret that all the time we've been looking for a permanent home for the TPC for so many obvious reasons," Beman said. "Well, we've found it. Sawgrass fills the bill."

The 1977 TPC championship, with a purse of $300,000, will be played at the new Sawgrass Country Club course in Jacksonville March 17-20, Beman announced Tuesday.

"We have signed a multi-year contract to hold the TPC at Sawgrass," Beman said. "It is the intent of both parties to make this a permanent home for our championship."

The TPC replaces the Greater Jacksonville Open, which now drops from the tour schedule. The Jacksonville organization, as well as the charities that benefitted from the Jacksonville Open, will continue to participate in the TPC, Beman said.

Sawgrass, 7,008 yards and playing to par-72, is located in a residential and recreation development near the Atlantic.

"It is a links course," Beman said, "because of its design and proximity to the Atlantic. It will give us a sense of tradition, of playing under conditions similiar to those where the game began. We know that Sawgrass will be an outstanding test of golf.

Of the recognized major championships — and BEman has said he hopes the TPC will join that list in the future—only the Masters has a permanent site, the Augusta National Golf Club. The U.S. Open, the British Open and the PGA change courses annually.

King beaten on Ali promotion

MUNICH (AP) — A young black promoter who outhustled Don King to help set up Muhammad Ali's coming fights with Richard Dunn and Ken Norton says King's heavyweight monopoly is over and "maybe Don better start selling cars."

The taunt came from Butch Lewis, a 28-year-old son of a Philadelphia used car dealer, who says he got up earlier, pestered more people and hustled harder than King to break what had become his seeming total control over Ali's fights.

King, the ex-convict from Cleveland, became boxing's most important matchmaker after setting up the $10 million bout in which Ali took George Foreman's title in 1974. He then put together Ali's biggest fights, including the 15 rounds in which the champion masqueraded as a fat man last month against Jimmy Young.

Lewis, now a vice president of Top Rank, Inc., one of the co-promoters of Ali's title defense here next Tuesday against Richard Dunn of England and the projected Sept. 27 fight in New York against Ken Norton, said he was able to get Ali because "Don never really considered me competition.

"Don," he said, "believed his own publicity, that is that he was the man who controlled Ali's fights. The white promoters bought King's line, but I knew that only Herbert Muhammad, Ali' manager, made the decisions. I caught King sleeping and feeling secure."

Lewis said that he had met German businessmen in Kinshasa when he travelled there with his friend Joe Frazier to watch the Ali-Foreman fight. They talked about their interests in putting up money for a championship in Germany, and when contact was re-established a year later, Lewis took the proposition to Ali, cornering him in an airport.

"He sent me to Herbert, and I spoke to that man on the telephone every day, and every day he'd say, 'No way.' I was just persistent. Eventually Ali had a contract of $1.6 million to take Dunn. I'm not bragging, but I just worked harder than Don King."

Lewis went on: "Don didn't want to see me doing my own thing, and he is always giving me the line that if I wait he will put me in as the big black promoter when he retires. I respect his guts, and everything he's done, but he thought I was too young to deliver. If you don't like competition then you can't deliver yourself. I am younger, I get up earlier and I think faster."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Dave Hill, an always-dangerous veteran, returns to his most happy hunting ground this week with a chance to join pro golf's exclusive list of $1 million winners.

"It's something I'd really like to do," said the sometimes controversial man who has scored the greatest successes of his stormy career in the $200,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic which gets underway Thursday.

To reach that goal, achieved by only 10 other men, the wiry Hill would have to nail down the $40,000 first prize. He now has $961,585 in a career that began 18 years ago.

"I'd really like to win here," he said. "That'd be super. It'd be nice to go past the $1 million mark in this tournament."

And he's taken off the last two weeks just to prepare for this tournament.

"I'm not really playing super yet—but it's a lot better than it has been the last couple of months," said the man who is rarely satisfied with the state of his game. "I'm getting there."

Among his chief opposition in the 72-hole chase over the 7,173-yard, par-72 Colonial Country Club course is a man who got there last week—Lee Trevino. Trevino, a two-time Memphis champion, scored his first victory ever in his native Texas and broke the longest winless string of his career with a triumph in the Colonial National Invitation.

"That's the best I've played in maybe two years," said Trevino, who has a history as a streak player—one who wins them in bunches.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by NBC-TV.

DOUBLE FIRST — Race driver Janet Guthrie became the first woman to drive the Indianapolis Motor Speedway (top). But she also became the first to stall (bottom).

RIVERSIDE — King Richard. Is he a legend or a myth?

Even Richard Petty, NASCAR's all-time racing great, is wondering about his current losing streak as he prepares for the Riverside 400 Winston Cup Grand National June 13 at Riverside International Raceway.

At this time one year ago Petty could look back on five victories, including the Daytona 500 and Atlanta 500, and look forward to what became a history-making assault on the season point championship.

His victory in the Riverside Tuborg 400 came during the most incredible performance in stock car racing history. It was the second in an 11-race series from May 25 through Sept. 21 in which he completed all but one of the 3,188 scheduled racing laps.

Petty racked up six wins and five second-place finishes in that spree to turn the NASCAR Winston Cup point race into a rout.

It's a far different story for Petty in 1975. Since his spectacular crashing finish in the Daytona 500, which handed the win to David Pearson and left Petty parked 100 feet from the finish line, King Richard's STP Dodge has won only once. Aside from his victory in the Carolina 500 at Rockingham, N.C., Petty has finished second three times and fourth twice. Untypically, Petty has failed to finish five times in 10 races this year.

"We ain't doin' nothin' different from what we was last year," Petty said. "It's sort of hard to figure out. It ain't nothin' to panic about. We win our share."

Observers claim that Petty was hard hit by the new NASCAR engine restrictions, instituted after the Daytona 500 in the interest of increasing competition.

The effect of the rule has been to hand most of the super speedway races to David Pearson (Mercury) and Buddy Baker (Ford) and give a short track advantage to the Chevrolets of Cale Yarborough and Darrell Waltrip.

"Richard started fading the latter part of last year, actually," said veteran NASCAR observer Gene Granger over the weekend at Dover, Del., where Petty and the others were competing in the Mason-Dixon 500. "He finished last at Richmond, where he mostly wins, because he was doin' some experimenting."

"He was doin' that because he knew what was comin' and he wanted to be ready. Don't you worry too much about ol' Richard."

Riverside, which has the only road course the NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National drivers see all season, will be a particularly difficult race this year, they all agree, because of the new shorter length, and that may not be to Petty's advantage.

Tickets for the Riverside 400 and California 150 NASCAR Late Model Sportsman race, the companion event also scheduled for June 13, are on sale at Ticketron, Wallichs, Liberty Ticket Agencies and the Riverside International Raceway.

Hobbs thinks a true champion tries everything

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — David Hobbs prefers road races to closed-course events such as the Indianapolis 500, but he feels the true world champion driver must try everything.

"I find road racing more of a thrill," the Formula driver from Upper Boddington, England, said.

"But I guess all racers like to try everything. The perfect world champion should do three U.S. Auto Club championship races, three NASCAR stock car races, three Formula I races, three long distance sports car races and maybe a sprint car race on dirt."

Hobbs, 36, began racing in 1959 and turned professional in 1965 in Formula II cars. He drove a Lola for John Surtees in 1966 and competed in his first Formula I race in Italy and ran at LeMans.

"Here, there is only one line—the right line," Hobbs said. "The key to driving fast here is smoothness. You have to go up absolutely to the wall and turn absolutely at the right place and be as close to the wall as possible on the way out.

"You must use the maximum amount of track. You can deviate, but you'll lose time—or wheels.

"In road racing, you won't have as sharp corners, but you can put a wheel over the edge of the road and it won't be the end of the world. If you do that here, you're into the wall."

There is a lot more freedom on the road course, he said.

"Here, you can come three feet away from the wall instead of one foot, but you'll lose six or seven miles per hour. You can't come rushing up to the corner and fling it around at the last second. You have to ease it around."

Hobbs has driven in three previous Indianapolis races, the last in 1974 when he started ninth and finished fifth.

This year he is driving a McLaren-Offenhauser for the Walther team of Dayton, Ohio. He missed a chance to qualify last weekend due to a clutch problem.

"If you have the opportunity to come to Indianapolis, it's worthwhile to do so," Hobbs said. "It's another notch on your gun. Obviously, if you win it's a great achievement."

Hobbs admits one big lure in driving at Indianapolis is the money. The total purse in the May 30 race will top $1 million for the seventh straight year, and the winner will take home close to one fourth of that.

"But I could never make a career racing ovals all the time," the British driver said.

"Road racing takes more skill," he said, "but oval racers would disagree entirely. However, road racers who have come here have done better than oval track racers who try road courses."

The USAC championship cars, he said, are "so dependent on aerodynamics. You get up close behind another driver and you lose a lot of down force. That's one reason I'd like to see the wings go."

Parsons regains point, money lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Benny Parson's first auto race victory of the season has enabled him to regain the lead in the Grand National competition of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Parsons' first-place finish Sunday in the Mason-Dixon 500 at Dover, Del., also put him over the $100,000 mark in earnings for the year.

Parsons led the Grand National yearly point standings for most of the NASCAR tour's first leg but lost the lead to Cale Yarborough earlier.

With Sunday's victory, Parsons has a slim 24-point lead over Yarborough — 1,836 to 1,812.

Rounding out the top 10 point leaders are Richard Petty, 1,723; Bobby Allison, 1,556; Dave Marcis, 1,612; Lenny Pond, 1,588; Richard Childress, 1,516; Buddy Baker, 1,429; Darrell Waltrip, 1,384, and Frank Warren, 1,371.

Leading the money winners list is Petty, with $129,300. Yarborough is second with $122,490; then Pearson, $104,545; Parsons, $102,100; Baker, $82,985; Waltrip, $82,650; Marcis, $73,445; Allison, $69,280; Pond, $46,395, and Childress, $32,735.

Almanac

On this date in 1588, the 130 ships of the Spanish Armada sailed from Lisbon, Portugal, to engage the British in battle.

On this date:

In 1536, the second queen of England's King Henry VIII, Anne Boleyn, was beheaded in London.

In 1943, during World War II, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the U.S. Congress that America had full British support in its fight against Japan.

In 1945, more than 400 U.S. Superfortress bombers attacked Tokyo.

In 1964, the U.S. State Department disclosed that 40 secret microphones had been found hidden in the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

In 1974, Communist troops shelled more than 60 Allied positions in South Vietnam, marking the 80th birthday of North Vietnam's leader, Ho Chi Minh.

Ten years ago: There was fighting in the South Vietnamese city of Da Nang between government troops and opponents of the government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Five years ago: The Nixon administration scored a major foreign policy victory in Congress as the Senate barred any reduction of American forces in NATO.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Provincial Congress in New York held a secret session and examined reports by Gen. George Washington that Loyalists in New York and Connecticut were plotting to join the British and that some traitors were taking soundings to determine landing spots for British forces on Long Island.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A murder complaint has been issued against a man held by authorities in Philadelphia, charging him in the killings of a Sherman Oaks attorney and his wife last December.

Robert Blair, also known as Robert Bartee, is accused of the murders of 37-year-old Allan Wellman and his 26-year-old wife, Renate, in the complaint issued Monday by the District Attorney's office. The two were found shot to death in their Sherman Oaks home.

America: Our next 100 years.

If you had your way, what would you want our country to be like by the time of the Tricentennial?

Please tell us by completing this questionnaire.

It's not difficult; you can complete it in only a few minutes. But because it touches on so many aspects of our life, it can also take many days. And be prepared: some of the questions go to the very heart of the way we live and could possibly make you angry. That's not our purpose. We want your opinions.

It is our plan to publish the results of this survey in newspapers and magazines, and to report them on television.

Certainly, this is not a scientific study. We are merely trying to take the pulse of the nation in this important year. On the 200th anniversary of our nation, we think it is important to assure that the voice of the public – your voice – is heard loud and clear.

Please note that all ideas submitted shall become public property without compensation and free of any restriction on use and disclosure.

Inspection

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police and county health inspectors have begun inspections of massage parlors in the city, making certain the 212 businesses conform to tough new sanitation rules.

The inspections are strictly for health violations, officials said Monday.

"Our purpose is solely to obtain compliance with the ordinance," said police Lt. Max Hurlbut. "We are not vice officers. If places are not up to standard, they will be given reasonable time."
